Wellesley "War Widow," Who Wed Again After Rapid Fire Romance, Is Stranded

A rapid-fire romance and its bitter ending were revealed today, when Mrs. Etta Irene Biers Rich of Wellesley, a pretty "war widow" of twenty-four, telegraphed home that her honeymoon of two weeks was over, and that she was deserted and without funds in a hotel at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Lester M. Rich, the good-looking stranger with whom she eloped, is being hunted in Saratoga, and is wanted on numerous charges of forgery.

News even of the elopement came as a surprise to most of the residents of the college town. The couple were married in Claremont, N. H. A pitiful telegram for funds, sent to the girl's mother, Mrs. Emerenzo Northrop of Linden street, told of the end of the brief romance.

GABY DESLYS TO WED; WILL GIVE UP STAGE

London, Nov. 26.—Gaby Deslys is through with the stage. The Daily Mirror makes the announcement that she will never, never again follow the lure of the footlights except—and this is the only exception, she insists—for charity performances.

But here's an even bigger sensation. Gaby is engaged to marry. She is now appearing in a film, and after that she's through with stage life and will enter the port of matrimony. She refuses to divulge who the prospective husband is, beyond saying he is not an actor.

EARL CURZON TO BE MADE MARQUIS BY KING GERGE

London, Nov. 26.—It is understood that Earl Curzon of Kedleston, who succeeded Arthur Balfour as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will be advanced to the rank of marquis in the King's list of New Year honors for his excellent war services.

Baltimore, Nov. 26.—Cardinal Gibbons, head of the Catholic Church in America, today issued this Thanksgiving message:

We offer thanks to God this year because of the many blessings received from him during the past twelve months; in particular, for the cessation of the world war, and in our own country for the prosperity and peace we enjoy.

We thank Him for the spirit of patriotism fanned into a warmer flame in the hearts of our people and manifesting itself most recently in the resolve to curb effectually those destructive forces which strive to undermine or overthrow the just and wise provisions of our government.

WOMAN MISSING AFTER DEATH NOTE

Following a note saying that she was tired of living and was "going away never to return," Winchester police, aided by 100 Boy Scouts, today searched for Mrs. Lena M. Dotten, who disappeared from her home, No. 465 Washington street, Winchester, on Tuesday morning.

The fact that she had apparently passed by the Winchester Reservoir, which is only about 200 yards from her home, led to the hope that she had not intended to commit suicide. Her husband, Fred Dotten, a carpenter, aided the police in their search.

Mrs. Dotten is about forty-five, light complexioned, five feet three inches in height, and weighs 159 pounds. She had been in ill health for some time, but attended to her housework as usual. The couple have four children, the oldest seventeen, the youngest nine. Mrs. Dotten wears rimless spectacles, and is believed to be wearing a long black coat and black hat.

The police received a report this morning that yesterday afternoon Mrs. Dotten was seen on Highland avenue going towards the Fellsway. Chief of Police W. R. McIntosh and Sergeant Thomas McCauley led the search today.

The Boy Scouts, directed by Scout Master Maran, worked in the general direction of Spot Pond.

If today's search is unsuccessful the fire department will be called out tomorrow and a posse of volunteers.

Y. D. VETERAN, 'INSULTED' BY WIFE, WINS DIVORCE

Alleged insults written across his photograph by his wife were introduced as evidence today by Willard McGregor, Y. D. veteran, seeking divorce from Mrs. Malvina C. McGregor before Judge Hitchcock in Superior Court. McGregor said he had given her the photograph before he went to the Mexican border with the National Guard in 1916. She mailed it to him, he said, with the slighting comment written across the face. McGregor said that announced she was through with him. When he returned he could not find her, he said. He became a guard on the Boston Elevated, and saw her once on his train, but could not leave his post to speak to her. McGregor gave his address as No. 628 Massachusetts avenue. The divorce was granted.

PALMER SEES EARLY END OF COAL FIGHT

Washington, Nov. 26.—The government is ready to make its final statement to the coal miners and operators, Dr. Garfield, fuel administrator, made this statement this afternoon after being in session with the Cabinet for more than two hours.

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—"The Cabinet will settle the coal situation very shortly," Attorney-General Palmer declared as he entered the Cabinet meeting today. He stated that in his opinion the points in controversy in the Cabinet would be ironed out without great difficulty.

The point of difference in the Cabinet is on Secretary Wilson's figures as to the increases which should be granted the miners. It is understood that the Cabinet has accepted the Secretary's figures as to the increased cost of living, but there is some dispute as to whether his statistics as to the necessary increases are just to both the operators and the public.

The Cabinet meeting began to break up shortly after 1:15. None of the members would comment on the Basket Fund Enriched by Gift of $100 from J. H. Dunn Club

Members of the John H. Dunn Club, composed of Boston Elks, have donated $100 to the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund to buy dinners for worthy families. This sum was collected at an informal dinner in the Elks' home on Somerset street.

During the dinner one of the members suggested a contribution to the fund which does work similar to that done by the Elks. The "hat" was passed and when the money was counted it was learned that $100 had been added to the fund. The club, as an organization, had previously given $10.

This club is named after John H. Dunn and was formed when he was in France with the doughboys. The club sent many things to France for the men under Col. Dunn—in fact it was organized for that express purpose. Since the end of the war the members have met occasionally and had good times. The officers are: President, Timothy E. McCarthy;

LAWRENCE APPEALS TO COOLIDGE

City Names Committee to Tackle Fight Between Jitneys and Trolleys

Lawrence, Nov. 26.—With the city almost helpless as a result of the cessation of trolley service, Lawrence officials today decided to make an appeal to Governor Coolidge.

At a special meeting of the City Council a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to wait on the Governor and ask him to use his influence with trustees of the Bay State so that service may be resumed.

This action followed announcement that four jitney operators had been convicted and fined $50 each for operating without licenses and accepting donations.

OFFERS REMEDY AT LAW.

In handing down his decision, Judge S. J. Mahoney of the District Court advised the city authorities to petition the Superior Court for an injunction to restrain the jitneys from operating. If they then continued to do so, he said they could be jailed for contempt.

At the City Council meeting, Attorney John C. Toomey, counsel for the Jitney Association, scathingly arraigned the trustees of the railway, and asked that the entire matter be placed on the ballot. It was stated in this connection that 1,000 names had been secured since yesterday.

Parker F. Ryan, who with other employes of the car company attended the meeting, characterized the jitney men as "Bolsheviki," and asked if there were no way of forcing them to obey the law.

MAY LET PUBLIC DECIDE.

It is understood that the City Council is in favor of placing the entire question on the ballot and allowing the voters to decide in favor of trolleys or jitneys. This course is being opposed by the road.

Attorney Toomey suggested that thirty buses, carrying fourteen passengers each, on a four-mile haul

Germany Expects Direct Treaty With U. S.

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Germany expects direct peace negotiations with the United States as a result of the failure of the Senate to ratify the peace treaty, according to newspaper reports from Berlin reaching the State Department today.

The Tageblatt declared that presumably questions affecting relations between the United States and Germany would be settled by direct negotiations.

Nationalist tendencies are gaining strength, according to the newspaper reports. A League of Nations meeting was reported as broken up by a Nationalist group. Noske has issued a statement discounting the Nationalist agitation.

BORE HOLE IN ENGINE TO SAVE LIFE

By International News Service.

Fort Madison, Ia., Nov. 26.—Acetylene torches are eating their way through the steel sides of the engine of California-bound Santa Fe passenger train No. 1 in an effort to rescue Engineer Joe Spring of Chicago, pinned beneath the wreckage of his cab when the train collided head on with a freight on the east end of the Mississippi River bridge here early today.

Fireman Joe Griswold of Fort Madison was scalded to death, and it is feared that Spring will die before he is rescued. More than a score of passengers received injuries.

Spring's body, partly submerged in water, was caught fast. For two hours after the wreck rescuers could hear his voice pleading with them to come to his aid. These appeals have ceased, however, and it is feared he has perished.

Arthur Hastings, a fireman, A. H. Seller, baggageman, and C. W. Kelley, engineer of the freight train, are also injured. Nearly every window in the coaches and sleepers was broken and passengers were cut by flying glass.

The train crashed as a result, it was reported, of the failure of the signal operator at Fort Madison to hold the passenger train at that station until the arrival of the freight train. It was reported the operator failed to deliver orders to the passenger train.

The engine of the freight was split almost in two by the impact. Both engines and two baggage cars are partly submerged in the river, the track is torn up for 200 yards and freight and passenger coaches are strewn along the right of way.

SUNDAY SCHOOL UNKNOWN TO 250,000 N. Y. YOUTHS

New York, Nov. 26.—A quarter of a million New York children of Protestant families have never seen the inside of a Sunday school, declared Miss Agnes Warren at a meeting of the Episcopal Church Women's League for Patriotic Service. A drive for $42,000,000 will be opened next month to teach Americanism to children. A feature of the campaign will be efforts to restore the old-fashioned Sunday school hall.

SCHEME TO DEFRAUD CHARGED

John E. Allen, Devonshire St. Broker, Is Indicted; Accused of Illegally Using Mails

The indictment of John E. Allen, Boston stockbroker, charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, became known today when his case was ordered placed on the Federal Court trial list.

A Federal Grand Jury returned two indictments against him last September in connection with the exploitation of stock in the Albany Divide and Hecla Divide Mining Companies.

When arraigned before Judge Morton in the District Court, Allen, who lives at Swampscott and maintains offices at No. 85 Devonshire street under the firm name of John E. Allen & Co., pleaded not guilty. He was released on $3,500 bonds.

The first indictment refers to the Albany Divide Mining Company, with which Allen is alleged to have had an agreement through which he controlled a large number of shares of stock to be offered for public sale. The mine is said to be located in Nevada. Nev., having a capitalization of $1,500,000 shares of common stock, of which the par value was ten cents. It was also said to control lands in the Divide mining district of Nevada.

About April 1, 1919, and at divers times up to the return of the indictment, Allen is charged with having operated a scheme to defraud by advertising the property by means of letters and newspaper advertisements sent through the mails. "Allen's Mining Ore and Industrial Poster" was also referred to in the indictment.

KOLCHAK GOVERNMENT WILL SOON RESIGN

London, Nov. 26.—The so-called "Northwest Russian government," which was supported by the anti-Bolshevik army of General Yudenitch, will soon resign, according to a dispatch from Helsingfors today. Yudenitch's army, defeated on the front southwest of Petrograd, has been disarmed by the Esthonians.

The foregoing dispatch makes it evident that all attacks against Petrograd have come to an end. Yudenitch's forces were at one time said to be sixteen miles from the city. The so-called northwest Russian regime apparently had the support of the allies, but its prestige was ill-lived.

Offers Thanksgiving Dinner for Two Needy Children

Wanted—A little boy and a little girl, of eight or ten or twelve years, to have Thanksgiving dinner in Dorchester. Mrs. Robert E. Greene of Dorchester called up the Boston American today and made her request.

"Good morning, Mr. Editor," said Mrs. Greene. "I have two places for two little Thanksgiving guests at my celebration tomorrow, and I wish you would help me to find two nice children. I would like a girl and a boy, white, of my own race. We have dinner in the afternoon, but the children are welcome to come before afternoon, if they wish. A warm welcome is waiting for them. Will you find them for me, Mr. Editor?"

The American has Mrs. Greene's address. Will any two children who can accept the invitation please make themselves known?

LOWELL-TYNGSBORO LINE TO STOP SERVICE

Lowell, Nov. 26.—The Eastern Massachusetts Electric Railway company today announced discontinuance of its service between Lowell and Tyngsboro, effective Wednesday, December 3. Officials of the company said the Tyngsboro line had not paid for years. The line is about eight miles long. No other electric car service is in the territory and the residents will have to rely on jitney buses and the steam railroads. The Vesper Country Club, between Tyngsboro and North Chelmsford, has been served by the line.

CHRISTMAS DINNER COSTS $65 IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 26.—The bidding for tables in hotels, restaurants, cafes and cabarets for the coming Christmas celebration defies all records, and so do the prices.

Dinner reservations at the average tango palace cost $25, in addition to $25 for the dinner itself—providing it is wineless.

To guard against possible closing by the police because of the need to economize in lighting power, one of the biggest cafes has just purchased 5,000 candles.

LORD ASTOR FAILS TO SURRENDER TITLE

London, Nov. 26.—Lord Astor's efforts to surrender his title failed today. By a vote of 169 to 56, the House of Commons defeated a motion to introduce a bill divesting Lord Astor of his peerage. Lord Astor got his title when his father died a few weeks ago.

BRITISH JAIL NEPHEW OF EGYPTIAN LEADER

London, Nov. 26.—Atif Barakat, nephew of Zaglul Pasha, the president of the Egyptian delegation to the peace conference in Paris, has been arrested by the British military authorities at Cairo, according to a news agency dispatch today. The arrest was made in connection with the Egyptian nationalist activities.

Most Drastic Step Yet Taken to Put Down Sinn Fein Movement in Ireland

Dublin, Nov. 26.—A proclamation suppressing the Sinn Fein throughout Ireland was issued in the official Gazette today. All activities by the Sinn Fein organization are prohibited. This is the most drastic step yet taken by the British authorities to put down the Sinn Fein movement.

By International News Service.

Dublin, Nov. 26.—The new anti-Sinn Fein proclamation, tightening motor control in Ireland and making prison rules more drastic, is already stirring up trouble. Sinn Feiners are resenting the restricting and the leaders declared today that they plan to fight the new orders with all their power.

Professional motor drivers are refusing to seek permits under the new regulations and threaten to strike if any prosecutions are begun by the authorities. The Chauffeurs' Union is closely linked with other labor organizations and a general strike may be precipitated should the motor drivers go out.

The new prison order is hailed as offering new chances for martydom by Sinn Fein prisoners. It is conceded that grave consequences might follow if any of the prisoners died from hunger strikes.

LEWENBERG CHARGES COOLIDGE HAS SURRENDERED TO LOBBY

REFER TO 'UNSEEN HAND'

Says Appointee to Utilities Board Represents 'Vicious' Influence

Charging that Governor Coolidge has surrendered to the lobby interests connected with the private owners of the public utility corporations, Commissioner Solomon Lewenberg of the Gas and Electric Light Commission today asserted in a public statement that the Governor has appointed to the Commission on Public Utilities a man who has been known for years in political circles as a personal representative of "the most noted lobbyist of the Commonwealth."

Commissioner Lewenberg said in his statement:

"I sincerely regret that the Governor of the Commonwealth has surrendered to the most vicious element of the body politic, one whose subtle and insidious methods are more dangerous than the cruelty of the open.

"The unseen hand has succeeded in procuring the appointment to the Public Utilities Commission of one, who, for many years, has been known under the Gilded Dome as the personal representative of the most noted lobbyist of the Commonwealth."

The Public Utilities is the new board which succeeds, in the great shakeup, the Gas and Electric Light Commission and the Public Service Commission.

NEW BOARD MEMBERS.

Governor Coolidge appointed to the new commission former Attorney-General Henry C. Attwill of Lynn, Everett E. Stone of Springfield, a member of the old Public Service Commission; David A. Ellis of Newton, lawyer; Alonzo B. Wood of Newton, who was chairman of the Gas and Electric Light Commission, and Henry G. Wade of Haverhill, former President of the Senate and former district attorney of Essex County. The salary of the chairman is $8,000 and of the associate commissioners $7,000.

Commissioner Lewenberg and General Morris Schaff, veteran member of the Gas Commission, and Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the Public Service Commission, failed of appointment to the new commission.

Commissioner Lewenberg retires after three years of service on the commission. He was appointed by Governor McCall, in whose campaign he had played a conspicuous part.

During his term of service Commissioner Lewenberg had several notable clashes with representatives of the lighting interests. On one occasion he demanded in presence of President Edgar of the Boston Edison Electric Illuminating Company before the commission, declaring that this petition before us is serious enough to the public interest to command the attention of that official."

Attorney Everett W. Burdett, retiring as counsel for the company and law partner of Jacob Otis Wardwell of Haverhill and Boston, retired from the case, asserting that he had been insulted by Commissioner Lewenberg.

WARDWELL WAS CALLED.

In the revelation before the Commission of the payment by the company to the Burdett-Wardwell law firm of $250,000 in three years, of which $50,000 was expended by Mr. Wardwell with the sanction only of the president of the company, Mr. Wardwell himself was summoned to the witness stand.

Commissioner Lewenberg engaged in another row with the company when it issued $10,000,000 of bonds time notes without the approval of the commission. He went to the State House seeking remedial legislation, but the Legislature declined to admit his petition. Only a few days numerous minority decisions protesting against the issuance of stock and other forms of securities were filed to the private companies by the majority of the commission.

In his questions addressed to Governor Coolidge, Charles S. Baxter today demands to know "what interests have been boasting for six months that they are going to 'get Lewenberg.'"

MORE NOMINATIONS.

Governor Coolidge sent a batch of seven appointments to the Council today but they were of minor offices, having no relation to the great shakeup. The appointments were:

S. Henry Pessemier of Brookline, trustee of the Norfolk County Agricultural School, in place of Philip L. Saltonstall, deceased; Henry Bingham of Dedham, trustee of the Norfolk County Agricultural School, in place of E. H. Gilbert, resigned; Fred

Misses Johnson and Gillespie Laud Each Other

Statements that intense bitterness was created by the appointment of Miss Ethel M. Johnson as assistant commissioner of labor by Governor Coolidge, instead of Miss Mabel Gillespie, were emphatically denied by both women today.

In interviews with the American each declared the other to be her warmest personal friend, and insisted that there never had been and never would be any rivalry between them.

"Miss Gillespie and I are personal friends," said Miss Johnson. "I love her and trust her, and there is no question of rivalry between us. I was not a candidate and would not have been a candidate in opposition to her."

"I was not appointed and I never expected to be," said Miss Gillespie. "Ethel Johnson is one of my warmest friends. My personal feeling is that if working women are to be given representation there is no one I would rather see appointed than my friend, in whom I have the greatest confidence."

LOSE LABOR POINT OF VIEW.

"When people say that there is any rivalry between us, they are losing the point. We are making no attack upon Miss Johnson. Our feeling is merely, that the working women of the State should have representation on this newly created Department of Labor and Industries. The protest of the working women is against being denied representation.

"I know it is the conventional thing for every man or woman decided appointment to say they are not disappointed. Nevertheless I say the conventional thing. It strangely enough, being true. Personally, I am not disappointed. I am more interested in organization work, and feel that I can be of greater service to the working women of the State where I am. Besides, Governor Coolidge I was very reluctant to become a candidate, and only consented after great pressure was put upon me by working women. When the pressure became so great that I felt it was really drafted, I consented to run. I knew that the opposition to me would be very great, but I felt I was acceptable to employers who pay women low wages, or who force them to work under burdensome conditions.

LIKE "POPULAR PRIMARY"

"Yesterday, when one of our trade union women lodged her protest against representation was opposed by denied. the Governor's secretary stated that the campaign which had been made for me was equal to an election. I think it is most fitting to liken my support to a popular primary, for, as a matter of fact, no organized campaign was made. Scores of our people, in different parts of the State, were notified of the importance of the selection of women of the State being represented and were told that I was being put forward as their candidate. The response was so quick and so overwhelming that the Governor's office felt moved to liken it to an election.

"Although I knew I had an overwhelming support, I did not expect to secure the appointment, when I heard that the Civic Federation and Associated Industries were unfavorable to me. It was suggested to one of my supporters by a representative of the Civic Federation that it was unfortunate that we could not unite on a 'harmless' person."

Miss Johnson, present secretary of the Minimum Wage Commission, in her office in the State House, protested her friendship and faith in her colleague. "I am most distressed that the impression has gone forth that there was any feeling between Miss Gillespie and myself in regard to the appointment. Why, I did not even run. My name, so far as I know, was never mentioned. I was very much surprised to get the appointment.

PRAISES MISS GILLESPIE.

"I have worked with Miss Gillespie on the Minimum Wage Commission for over a year now, and I have the greatest respect and admiration for her. I love her and trust her. I consider her the one woman in the State who best represents the interests of the working woman. This Association is the official position, her acquaintance with the problems of the working woman, her work on the Minimum Wage Commission, and her labors to promoting legislation for women and children.

"Miss Gillespie and I are personal friends, and there is no question of rivalry between us. I was not a candidate, and would not have been a candidate in opposition to Miss Gillespie.

"I knew the protest was to be made by the Trade Union Women, and in their ranks I still have a number just as they did. It was not a personal matter, but a question of principle, and I resigned it as such."

Miss Johnson is a graduate of Simmons and of Boston University. She was former secretary of the professional committee of Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, took an active part in the Federal amendment. She has had wide experience in secretarial and executive work, and has been vice-chairman of the legislative committee of the Boston City Federation of Women's Clubs. Other positions have been as organizer for women's clubs and organizations, at the International Industrial Institute, and special librarian of a library got together by herself on women in industry. Miss Johnson has won recognition as a special news writer and magazine contributor.

Peace Question Comes Before Senate Again Next Monday

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The question of peace will be given immediate consideration by the Senate when it reconvenes on Monday.

Administration leaders said today that they were prepared to ask for immediate action on either the Peace Treaty or the Lodge reservations, declaring the war at an end.

Republican leaders are expected to attempt to stem any such movement, for many Senators have gone to their homes and will not be back until Monday, and the leaders have promised there will be no action until the full membership is present.

President Wilson is desirous of immediate action. Senator Hitchcock has been summoned to the White House, and on Saturday he will confer with the President and the future course of the administration will be decided upon.

E. Morris of Hudson, reappointed trial justice; Edward H. Bradford of Boston, reappointed trustee of the Massachusetts Hospital School; Charles B. Boyce of Gardner, reappointed clerk of the First District Court of Northern Worcester; Joseph C. Davis of Canton, trustee of the Norfolk County Agricultural School, in place of Guy A. Ham, who declined reappointment; Fred W. Cronin of Worcester, reappointed master in chancery.

Governor Coolidge approved the retirement on half-pay of General Schaff of the Gas and Electric Light Commission, and Dr. Henry P. Walcott, chairman of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board. Both are men over 70 years of age, and in consequence of their long service to the State were eligible to retirement.

GENERAL STRIKE IS THREATENED BY SINN FEIN

Australian forces, was arraigned before a court-martial today at Guildhall. He pleaded not guilty.

Father O'Donnell is accused of saying in a speech at Killarney that "the Australians fought for the independence of small nations, while independence was denied Ireland by a few satellites of the King, who were filling their pockets at the expense of the workers in the trenches and was the blood of Irish patriots."

Lieutenant Chambers of the British army presented notes in support of the charge against the chaplain. It was declared that Father O'Donnell had further said that he considered "a King and royal family of no use to this or any other country," and expressed hope that the recent railway strike was the beginning of a revolution.

The accused was charged with saying that King George, evidently fearing the same (revolution), ordered the premier to quash the strike. Another specification in the charge was that Father O'Donnell had predicted that Ireland would "shortly strike against the tyrannical British government."

The chaplain also was charged with saying that sympathy with the Sinn Feiners was growing in Australia.

Father O'Donnell was arrested in August.

OPEN SALE OF RED CROSS SEALS ON DECEMBER 1

The annual Red Cross fight against tuberculosis, financed by the sale of Christmas seals, is about to start. The Red Cross seals will be placed upon sale December 1. In connection with this drive, Red Cross surgeons point out that, in the fight against tuberculosis, the first essential is to look after the children. For this purpose they have established the nutrition clinic for delicate children. "Not a child should be permitted to go to school who is not well and properly fed. If this idea can be carried home, a lap can be gained upon tuberculosis," said Dr. Bernard Carey.

CONGRESS MAY TAKE ACTION ON MEXICO

Meantime Another 'Sharp Note' on Jenkins Case Is Being Prepared

Washington, Nov. 26.—"We are still awaiting a reply from Mexico," said Secretary of State Lansing today, commenting on the Mexican situation and the Jenkins' case. Secretary Lansing said he would not lay the Mexican situation before the Cabinet again until the Carranza government replied to the note sent by the United States demanding the release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Congress may take up the Mexican situation when it convenes on Monday.

The delay of the Carranza government in answering the sharp note of the United States demanding the release of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent, is arousing considerable protest here. Representative Davis of Tennessee, who has interested himself in the Jenkins case, will take the matter to Congress as soon as it opens if the efforts of the State Department have not met with success. So far Cabinet discussions seem fruitless.

Another sharp note is in the course of preparation by the State Department and may be dispatched if the Carranza government does not give answer. The State Department informed the Mexican government that a reply must be made within a "reasonable" time, and the patience of the administration is beginning to wear. The attitude of the Carranza government is still defiant apparently.

According to all information here Jenkins is still in jail in Puebla and the Mexican Cabinet and Legislature is considering his case with great leisure despite the pressure brought to bear by the State Department.

The Mexico City press excerpts received by the State Department quote the sub-secretary of foreign affairs of Mexico as saying that public opinion in the United States is being excited by certain newspapers, but the serious newspapers are treating the subject calmly and carefully, that the Mexican authorities are continuing their investigations at Puebla and that the Mexican foreign office is receiving reports constantly for use in preparation of its reply to the American note, which, according to the press, was expected to be handed to the American embassy at Mexico City November 25.

ILLEGAL HOLDING SHOWN.

Meantime it developed that Jenkins, who was captured by bandits in April, and subsequently was arrested by the authorities of the State of Puebla on a charge of conspiracy, is in reality illegally held. The Mexican contention has been that Jenkins' case was a matter to be disposed of by the local authorities at Puebla, but a recent article of Article 104 of the new Mexican constitution has title to say specifically in the matter of diplomatic and consular authorities:

"The Federal tribunal shall have jurisdiction over all cases concerning diplomatic agents and consular officers."

This section of the Mexican law may put the matter in a new light. The Mexican government has had the American note, demanding the immediate release of Jenkins, since last Wednesday, but has taken no steps to either supply the United States with a reply or to carry out the demand embodied in the American communication. Furthermore, the attitude has been taken at the Mexican embassy here that the Federal government of Mexico was powerless to interfere in a case under the jurisdiction of the State authorities at Puebla.

KIDNAP ANOTHER AMERICAN.

A report was received in Washington which is an apt illustration of the "kidnaped value" of an American as compared with home talent. Within the past two weeks Mexican bandits dynamited a stretch of the Vera Cruz-Isthmus railroad, and held up a train. They marched forty of their own countrymen out of the cars, seized the ten wealthiest and rode away with them. Then they informed friends of the kidnaped men that $5,000 pesos would have to be paid for the ransom of each. The ransom demanded in the case of Jenkins was 100,000 pesos.

Ten days ago another American was kidnaped in Mexico. He was T. G. McKenzie, the manager of an electric power plant at Ciudad Camargo, in Chihuahua. Rebels overpowered him and started off for their fastnesses in the hills, but federal troops were fortunately nearby. They spied the rebels, gave chase and rescued Mc-Kenzie.

OPERATOR COPIES MESSAGE ORDERING HIS ARREST

Pueblo, Col., Nov. 25.—Because he interpreted the dots and dashes of the Morse alphabet, Frank Loveland, W. W. Loveland, well-known railroad telegrapher, is on his way to Wyoming to answer charges of impersonating a secret service officer.

Loveland was employed in a telegraph office here when he copied a message to the local sheriff requesting his arrest. Disguising a messenger with the telegraphic order, Loveland was surprised an hour later to see the sheriff walking into the office to place him under arrest.

JITNEYS FAIL TO HANDLE CROWDS IN LAWRENCE

for five cents, be permitted to operate during a week as an experiment. This suggestion was not received with enthusiasm.

The four defendants who appeared before Judge Mahoney were Aristides Economoropolis of Lowell, Arthur Urghart, Charles Gowen and Joseph Daolla, all of this city. The men, who were arrested yesterday, were convicted of violating the city ordinances by operating automobiles for hire.

The police testified that the men operated autos in defiance of the action of the City Council in revoking their licenses.

Economoropolis was running a car between this city and Lowell and claimed that he did not know the order went into effect until today. The other defendants were charged with accepting donations and operating machines on which were advertising signs of destination. Each appealed and was held for the Superior Court in $150.

An enormous fleet of buses invaded the city today, in a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to handle the traffic. As a result, hundreds were forced to walk.

With the exception of two lines, to Lowell and Haverhill, not an electric car moved out of the Bay State depot today, despite the fact that the City Council had revoked the jitney licenses.

As a result the bars were removed and jitneys of every description were allowed to operate without restraint.

CARS FROM EVERYWHERE.

Ten big buses from Boston, supplemented by a brigade of jitneys from Lynn, Lowell, Haverhill, Salem and Brockton, joined with the local machines in an attempt to prove that traffic can be properly handled for a five-cent fare.

A few of the jitneys, plying into the outlying sections, demanded seven cents, but the majority charged only five.

So many were the buses and so frequently did they cover their routes that the inconvenience to the public was comparatively slight.

However, some of the mill workers who live in the suburbs were compelled to walk, and it was said that many children were unable to reach school.

Much indignation was expressed by members of the Chamber of Commerce and local merchants, who appeared before a meeting of the City Council and demanded that action be taken to restore the trolleys.

Alderman Carr, however, took the attitude that the city had carried out its share of the agreement by revoking the jitney licenses, as demanded by the Bay State Company. Trustees of this road, on the other hand, asserted that the authorities had not adopted "effectual methods" of putting the jitneys out of business. As a result they declared that the order holding up operation of cars, would stand.

Jitney owners and drivers evaded the ruling of the city council by operating their machines as pleasure cars and then taking up contributions. According to John C. Toomey, counsel for the Jitney Association, they are within the law. He further pointed out that the jitneys are carrying passengers for five cents, whereas the trolleys demanded ten cents.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT.

City officials expressed the opinion that the situation was at a deadlock and that no immediate relief could be expected. As a result of Commissioner Carr's action all jitneys operating today because of the emergency. Jitneys are operating without license. Furthermore, every sort of conveyance has been pressed into service.

However, it was stated that this condition cannot last long, and that the bars will be put up within a short time. Various suggestions have been made to the City Council, one in particular providing for extremely heavy bonds.

To this the jitney men reply that such a regulation could be evaded as easily as those already in effect. By operating their machines free, and accepting contributions, it would not be necessary to get licenses.

The statutes define a jitney as "a motor bus conveyance operating between two termini and conveying passengers for hire."

TEACHERS WIN SUPPORT IN LEGISLATURE

Final Arguments on Bills to Raise Salaries Set for December 3

That the Boston teachers' bill proposing a flat $600 salary increase will not lack champions when it reaches the floor of the Legislature was indicated at the public hearing held by the joint committee on municipal finance in the State House auditorium. Three members of the Legislature declared their intention of giving the bill their active support.

The committee gave a sympathetic ear to the plea of the teachers. Senator Chamberlain of Amherst, one of its members, challenged the position of a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, who spoke against the bill, that the teachers were insubordinate in not being willing to leave the amount of their increase to the school committee. The Senator defended the right of the teachers to appear before the Legislature in behalf of a measure which so closely concerned them.

THREE SIDES ARGUE.

The hearing lasted five hours. Arguments were heard on both of the bills for increasing the pay of Boston teachers.

That known as the "teachers' bill" proposes a flat increase of $600 a year for every member of the teaching force.

The school committee bill would give a raise of $384 to those in the elementary grades, with a gradual decrease in the higher ranks, with the head master receiving only an increase of $72 a year.

The school committee believes in this plan, they say, because the teachers of the higher gradings already receive substantial salaries and do not need the increase so badly as those in the elementary schools.

Final arguments on the two bills will be heard by the Joint Legislative Committee at 2 p. m. of Wednesday, December 3, according to a decision reached after the hearing. Herbert B. Parker, counsel for the teachers, Judge Michael H. Sullivan of the School Committee and Joseph H. Hill, corporation counsel for the city, were instructed to appear before the committee at present their views on that date.

More than 2,000 persons, mostly teachers, attended the hearing. When a rising vote of the audience was called for by the Legislative Committee to determine its opinion on the two measures, less than a dozen refused the School Committee measure.

FRIENDLY TOWARD COMMITTEE.

Each one of the teachers who spoke asserted only the most cordial feeling toward members of the School Committee. Dr. Charles W. Palmer, chairman of the teachers' advisory council, said:

"We are in accord with the school committee as far as they go. We hope they will go a little farther."

Methods employed by teachers in their efforts to keep pace with the high cost of living were an interesting chapter in the hearing testimony. Some are drawing out their savings from banks, others have cancelled insurance policies or allowed shares in co-operative banking societies to lapse, many have resigned to enter commercial pursuits, according to the stories told the committee. Some are devoting their spare hours to tutoring or as instructors in night schools in order to eke out an existence. Funds earned in this way were described by Principal William B. Snow, headmaster of the English High School, and Stacey E. Southworth, president of the Boston School Men's Association. They declared that it destroyed teachers' energies to the extent that they were unable to give their greatest efforts to the regular work.

A canvass of 962 Boston teachers, Mr. Southwick said, showed that 921 of them, or about 96 per cent., were doing this outside work.

Silver Dollars Are Worth $1.05 in Bullion Form

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Treasury officials are not concerned with attempting to find means of preventing the conversion of silver money into bullion, despite the high price of silver, it was stated today. Officials of the Treasury stating that at even the high rate of silver the process of melting silver money would be expensive and would not warrant such an operation.

Yesterday silver was quoted at $1.37 an ounce, making the American dollar worth $1.05. The advance in the metal is said to be due to the enormous demands from China, which is normally the greatest silver consuming country in the world.

CAMBRIDGE TEACHERS' PAY RAISE POPULAR

Cambridge school teachers are meeting with a popular response from residents of Cambridge in the campaign to increase teachers' salaries $600 a year. In three days more than 6000 signatures to the petition being circulated in behalf of the teachers' raise have been received.

Mayor Quinn is strongly in favor of the increase, and has instructed the City Solicitor to appear before the Legislature when the petition is heard and favor the increase. The Cambridge Club, one of the most powerful women's organizations in the city, is strongly in favor of the increase and has announced it think that at least 95 per cent. of the voters are willing that the increase be granted.

ATTEMPT TO HUSH PROBE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 26.—The hearing of evidence in the Dean murder mystery by the Governor and Council at the State House disclosed a bitter feud between the State and Federal authorities in the investigation, which lend is one of the most suspicious features of the tragedy.

The reopening of the case by the Governor's Council has caused a wave of publicity and renewed interest to sweep the State.

New Hampshire newspapers published a series of the unsolved tragedy for the first time in fifteen months and the public is awaiting with keen interest further action by the State authorities.

Interest in the case is at fever heat, but certain officials appear to be just as eager as they were at the outset of the inquiry, to hush the matter up as swiftly and gracefully as possible.

The presentation of evidence before the Governor and Council lasted an hour, and, at the close of the session, Governor Bartlett thanked the representative of the Boston American for appearing before that body and enlightening himself and colleagues concerning activities which preceded and followed the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean at East Jaffrey on the night of August 13, 1919.

The Governor and members of the council asked frequent questions concerning the enemy signal lights which residents of East Jaffrey and members of the fashionable Summer colonies had complained of to the United States Department of Justice at Concord and at Boston.

Interrogations concerning certain suspects were made. Attorney-General Oscar L. Young explained that he had personally conducted a Grand Jury hearing at Keene, in April, nine months after the murder, and had cross-examined the suspects whose names have been linked with the case by the selectmen and the majority of the citizens of East Jaffrey ever since the murder.

RESENTS REOPENING OF CASE.

Mr. Young, although admitting that he did not personally think much of the testimony concerning the enemy signal lights, said that evidence to that effect had gone before the Grand Jury, but by his attitude and statements indicated very clearly that the signal lights had not received over-emphasis or any great attention on the part of himself or Solicitor Roy M. Pickford of Cheshire County.

It was pointed out at the hearing that the system of signals operated on the mountain ranges in the vicinity of East Jaffrey were the foundation of the murder of Dr. Dean and that without carefully co-ordinating that evidence with other features of the tragedy, proper motive could not be established and the murder be solved.

Attorney-General Young appeared to resent the reopening of the case to the extent of bringing it before the Governor and Council, a proceeding which was done on behalf of the selectmen and voters of East Jaffrey, who claimed to be outraged by the indifference and apathy of certain officials to date.

Attorney General Young referred to one member of the Selectmen as the "relief fund" and thereby referred to the agents of the Department of Justice, whom he said he "worked at cross purposes with the State and County authorities, adding:

"Nothing we could do would suit those fellows. They even went to the extreme of using a dictagraph on me by one of them who says they didn't is a liar."

FRICTION SUSPICIOUS.

The chief prosecutor of the State was very much incensed when he referred to the Federal agents and did not attempt to conceal his animosity. This friction between public officials is one of the suspicious features of the Dean case.

Citizens are curious to learn why the Federal and the State officials should clash. Federal officials have worked harmoniously with the State officials of East Jaffrey, who in turn claim that the discord is due entirely to the refusal of County and State officials to act on evidence in the case which points to certain persons.

Mr. Young stated that he was very anxious to find out who murdered Dr. Dean, and he continued to hint about Mrs. Dean's opportunity and probable guilt, but concluded by stating:

"The government witnesses seemed to agree that she couldn't do it, and we feel that we've been."

Governor Bartlett at this point seemed to be in danger of tardily adhering to the Mrs. Dean theory, which had been discarded months ago by government experts, including State allienists and Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath of Boston, one of the most eminent pathologists of the country, who claims that it was a "gang murder."

"The manner in which the body was bound seems to indicate the work of a crazy person," said Governor Bartlett, "but it is possible that what was done for the purpose of simulating such a theory in order to direct blame low-ard the widow by those familiar with the Dean family."

MAKE NO PROMISES.

At the close of the session the Governor stated that the council would be grateful to obtain any further evidence in the Dean case, but neither he, nor any member of the council or the Attorney-General, gave any promise that the State of New Hampshire would attempt further to ferret out new evidence.

No decision was made by the Governor or council, or even intimated, as to whether the request of the Selectmen and citizens of East Jaffrey for a new and sweeping Grand Jury investigation would be ordered.

HUNT BOTTLE AS CLEW IN GIRL'S DEATH

Accused Men Held While Baltimore Police Try to Unravel 'Poisoning' Mystery

By International News Service.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 26.—With Mrs. Catherine Bristol, twenty-five, of Philadelphia, in Johns Hopkins Hospital, blinded, and at the point of death, the mystery surrounding the death of Miss Lucille Sharp, twenty-eight, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and the supposed poisoning of Mrs. Bristol, remained uncleared today.

John Kelley, forty-eight, in whose apartment both young women were stricken suddenly ill, and Allie Osman, a wealthy Turk of New York, who was a visitor at the Kelley apartment, are held pending further hearings set for next Monday. The men are held "pending investigations."

The police today continued their search for "a peculiarly shaped bottle" which Dr. John T. King, who was called to attend both young women, testified he had seen in the Kelley apartment.

Dr. King testified that Kelley had told him that he (Kelley) had made a milk punch for Mrs. Bristol from part of the contents of this bottle. Kelley denied knowledge of the existence of the bottle. He said it was his belief that the young women became ill following the eating of fish in a downtown restaurant.

Dr. King declared both women showed symptoms of wood alcohol poisoning when he was called in.

Coroner Smith will go to Winston-Salem to assist in an autopsy on the body of Miss Sharp to determine what caused her death. The police declared today nothing has developed that would warrant them in ordering the release of Kelley and Osman.

"What time is it, nurse?"

The white-clad nurse pauses in her walk through the ward and bends down to the childish face, showing pale even against that snowy background. As the nurse consults the watch strapped to her wrist the youngster awaits the answer, patience in every feature of his blanched face.

"It's just 8:30," answers the nurse. Her voice is barely audible, even to the youngster to whom she speaks, but a score of youthful, shaved heads on the cots nearby lift up from their pillows and lean forward to catch that answer.

The boy on the cot leans back. He is counting something on his fingers. It is nurse's turn to wait patiently. The boy's head is raised.

READY TO FACE IT.

Suddenly: "Twenty-one more hours yet, nurse."

An operation? In twenty-one more hours the youngster on the cot goes under the knife? Oh, my! There is a different light in the boy's face. The nurse is smiling, and a father who, but yesterday cheerless has gone up from the tousled heads that heard the words.

An operation? Not on that youngster on the cot.

When those "twenty-one more hours" have slipped by, when the hands of nurse's wrist watch point to 12:30 tomorrow—the "operation" will be performed.

Thomas Simms, for thirty-seven years the white-aproned chef at the hospital, will walk in with a platter. On that platter will be a turkey—the biggest, fattest turkey in the lot of sixty-two which will be served at the hospital tomorrow.

CHEF WIELDS THE KNIFE.

And there in the children's ward, with more than sixty children hoistered up in their beds and looking on with glee, Chef Simms will perform the operation.

Of course, Dr. John J. Bowling, in charge, has made preparations for Thanksgiving dinners other than in the children's ward. In all 1,200 persons will be served turkey and all the fixin's at the City Hospital.

But it is in the children's ward that the dinner will have its greatest meaning. Chef Simms took pity—he key—the very "turk" they will eat tomorrow—up to the children's ward today, and never was an exhibit viewed with more interest.

KIDS CAN HARDLY WAIT.

Leo Ryan, who is five, viewed the much-heralded "turk" with awe, and turning to Blanche Zawitch, who occupies the cot by big side, expressed the wish, "Gee, if she was only cooked now!"

"Little Jim" Zada, who occupies a cot in one corner of the ward, requested that he be wheeled up to view the bird. His request was granted.

"They're a happy lot now," said Nurse Dorothy Hackett, "but wait until they bring that turkey up cooked!"

Sixty-two turkeys, weighing more than a thousand pounds, are today dressed and stuffed at the hospital awaiting the oven. Other goodies that will go to make up the Thanksgiving feast are ten bushels of celery, four hundred pounds of plum pudding, fifty pounds of raisins, six boxes of oranges, one hundred pounds of grapes, two barrels of cranberries, five barrels of squash and four of potatoes.

WOMAN BEATEN AND SHOT AT SWANTON, VT.

Widow Attacked by Stranger on Lonely Road; Suspect Under Arrest

St. Albans, Vt., Nov. 26.—An attempted assault in a lonely road in the town of Swanton became known today when Mrs. Joseph Robinson, a widow who lives alone on the outskirts of the village, stumbled into the home of a neighbor and said she had been beaten and shot by an unidentified man.

A bullet of small caliber had pierced her ear and another shot had grazed her scalp.

Sheriff G. F. Catlin and deputies, after searching the woods, arrested Harry Liberty of Burlington. Liberty denies any part in the affair. He will be taken to Swanton for identification.

EAST BROOKFIELD ASKS SEPARATION AS TOWN

East Brookfield, Nov. 26.—Action has been begun here to seek separation from Brookfield and the incorporation of East Brookfield and Podunk as a town. Petition blanks addressed to the Legislature were placed in local stores and a large number of signatures have been affixed. A finance committee is arranging to raise a fund for expenses of the campaign. Sentiment here is almost unanimous in favor of the separation.

At big clubs and smart hotels, where price is never a factor, Fatima is the one moderate-priced cigarette that actually outsells expensive straight Turkish brands.

Why? Because smokers have learned that this "just-enough-Turkish" blend can be smoked freely without worry about "too many."

BOGUS U. S. AGENT STEALS DRUGS IN LYNN PHARMACY

A man representing himself as an agent of the United States internal revenue department succeeded in making away with $35 worth of cocaine and morphine from the drug store of James B. Small, Essex street, Lynn. The man introduced himself as a government inspector, claiming that he was taking an inventory of the amount of drugs on hand at various stores. He inquired where the drugs were kept, and while he was said to have spent some time in examining them. From the description given them, the police believe that the man is the same individual who has been working a similar game throughout New York State, in Boston and elsewhere.

FIVE-CENT FARE FOR WORCESTER PEOPLE

Worcester, Nov. 26—Five-cent fares on the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway will go into effect next Monday, to be tried out for thirty days. This was the agreement reached in an all-day hearing before the Public Service Commission in Boston. The zone system will be adopted, with five cents as the fare unit, outside the city, and there will be no transfers. President C. V. Wood of the company announced that the one-man care had been ordered for a try-out on the Worcester system.

New German Menace In Russia Now Threatens

Berlin, Nov. 26.—A new crisis with the allies is threatened over the German troops in the Baltic States. The German cabinet has decided "in the name of humanity" to send troops to Russia, in defiance of the allies, unless a line of retreat to Germany is opened immediately for the 20,000 German soldiers in the Baltic States. It is claimed that Lettish and Lithuanian forces have surrounded the Germans and threaten to annihilate them, refusing meanwhile to grant an armistice.

RAILWAY MEN MAY CONSIDER BIG STRIKE

By International News Service.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 26.—Although admitting there was a possibility that such action may be considered, heads of the "Big Four" railroad brotherhoods were in unit today in denying reports that the 400 general chairmen in session here have voted to call a strike of the railroad men.

"No motion or resolution pertaining to a quick strike has come before the conference," said William G. Lee, president of the railroad trainmen, and I do not know whether any such motion or resolution will be presented."

President Lee said he had wired a Kansas City local which threatened to strike, saying: "That if they think they are bigger than the United States government, which is operating the railroads at present, I have no advice to give them."

Railway Employes in A. F. of L. Vote in Favor of Going on Strike

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Workers on the railroads, who are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, are favoring a strike, it was stated today. The American Federation of Labor organizations for railroad workers have been taking a strike vote, and returns show that about 90 per cent. favor giving the leaders power to call a strike.

Those organizations, however, are more or less dependent upon the big four brotherhoods as to the success of any strike.

Labor leaders here today declared that the railroad workers will demand a strike if the Cummins anti-strike legislation affecting railroad workers is passed, and some of the more radical members advocated a strike in protest against the legislation.

ENGLISH GOVERNMENT ORDERS COAL PRICES CUT

London, Nov. 26.—The people of England are astonished and pleased by the sudden announcement that the government has ordered a reduction of about $2 a ton in the price of domestic coal, which has been $10 a ton. This reduction comes on the heels of an expose by labor circles showing that the recent advance was not justified. The retailers have been thrown into consternation by the unexpected ruling.

CHELSEA MAYOR WANTS PROBE OF HOUSE RENTS

Mayor Breath of Chelsea has requested the Board of Aldermen to take action to provide means for investigating charges of rent profiteering.

He also requested that something should be done to supply additional equipment for the fire department of the city.

TRACE WOMAN'S ASSAILANT BY RUBBER HEEL

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Nov. 26.—High Sheriff John R. Wilcox believes he is on the trail of the man who attacked Miss Bessie Emmett in her home at Peacedale Saturday night. Discovery of rubber-heel prints in the cellar of the house, and Miss Emmett's description of the man are the clews.

The man is believed to be a resident of the town, who knew that Miss Emmett lived alone.

The latter was reported today as resting comfortably at the home of her brother-in-law, Dr. F. Edward Burke, in Wakefield. Mrs. Burke, up to the time of her marriage a few weeks ago, lived with her sister Bessie in the house on the North road. Their brother, James Emmett, is a Boston business man. Miss Emmett, since her sister's marriage, has been living alone. She is about thirty-five and does typewriting at her house.

On Saturday evening she was leaving the bathroom, clad in pajamas and slippers, when she was seized by the throat. She is slightly deaf, and had heard no sound in the house, although Sheriff Wilcox believes that the man was ransacking an adjoining room when Miss Emmett left the bathroom.

She struggled with the man in the darkness until her screams brought neighbors to the scene. They found her lying on the floor, dazed. She described the man as somewhat shorter than herself. This would mean that he is understated, as Miss Emmett is a woman of average height.

The intruder apparently gained entrance through a rear window. Sheriff Wilcox believes that the motive was robbery.

SIGN TREATY APPROVAL PETITION AT HARVARD

Harvard students in favor of immediate ratification in some form of the peace treaty and the League of Nations were given today an opportunity to sign a resolution to be forwarded to President Wilson, Senator Lodge and Hitchcock. The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That the peace treaty, including the Covenant for a League of Nations, should be resubmitted to the Senate, and that the administration of the United States Senators should promptly agree to its ratification, in such form as will enable the other signatories to acquiesce."

MISS HELEN HEARSEY IS BRIDE AT STOW

Stow, Nov. 26.—Miss Helen Elizabeth Hearsey, Jackson college class of 1914, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Hearsey of Gleasondale, was married this afternoon in the Unitarian Church to Whitney Thomas Fergusson, assistant agricultural College, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wells Fergusson of Stow. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Sidney Moulton. The maid of honor was Miss Evelyn Hearsey of Gleasondale, sister of the bride. The ushers were Howard Folsom Gleason of Gleasondale, Donald Priest of Gleasondale, John Clapp of Auburndale and William Smith of Stow.

ARREST DEPUTIES WITH $300 WORTH OF LIQUOR

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 26.—John T. Jewett and H. J. De Colines, two deputy sheriffs, have been arrested at Colchester, Vt., with nearly $300 worth of Canadian liquor in their possession. Two cases of gin and three cases of whiskey were included in the seizure.

The two men arrested said that they secured the liquor from a man they met at Rouses Point Junction.

Lawson has been arrested and is being held in the Franklin County jail at St. Albans. The liquor and the automobile in which it was being transported now is in the hands of United States custom officials here.

U. S. TO KEEP OUT OF FIUME TANGLE

Washington, Nov. 26.—The Administration will extend its "watch-ful-waiting" policy to Fiume. It has not been able to agree with Italy on the disposition of the contested city which is now in the hands of D'Annunzio and from now on the country will assume the role of a spectator.

This developed when specific orders were transmitted to Admiral Andrews, commanding the American forces in the Adriatic, to keep out of the Italian quarrel over Fiume "as much as possible." This order practically countermands the instructions of the Supreme Council at Paris under which Admiral Andrews has been acting and which have resulted in complications arising in our relations with Italy.

BUSINESS MEN TO WELCOME LEVERHULME

All Tickets for Chamber Luncheon to English Lord Have Been Sold

William Eskett Lever, first baron Leverhulme, who arrived in New York yesterday from England, will spend Thanksgiving Day in Boston.

Lord Leverhulme, who is to make his only scheduled address in the United States before the Chamber of Commerce luncheon to be held in the Copley-Plaza Hotel, Friday, will reach Boston tonight.

Great interest has been aroused through the report that the famous English soap manufacturer will include in his address a plan for settling all strikes.

The luncheon to be tendered in his honor will be one of the most elaborate ever given by the chamber.

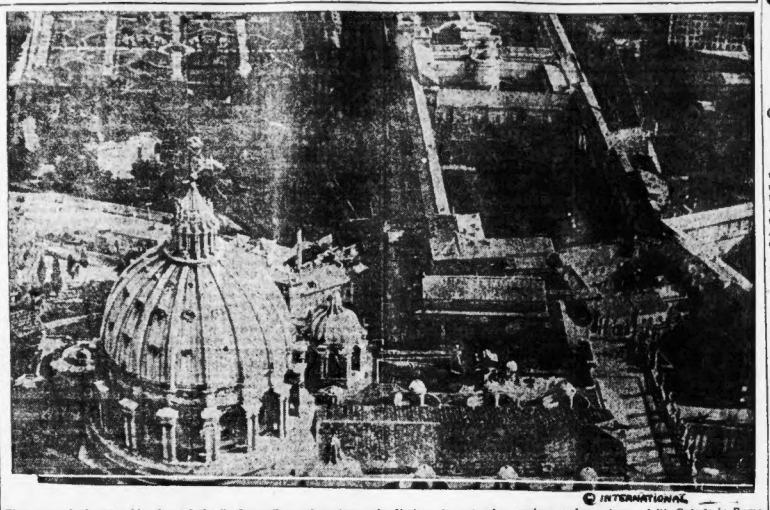
It will be held in the ballroom, and already every ticket has been disposed of. Women will be admitted to the balcony. The subject of his address will be "Facing the Facts in Human Relationship in Industry."

From noon until 12:10 o'clock Lord Leverhulme will hold a reception in the foyer of the hotel. President Macomber and officers of the chamber will receive the titled guest. Members of the minute-men organization of the chamber will act as ushers.

Following the luncheon, Lord Leverhulme will visit the Cambridge plant of Lever Brothers, one of the many concerns owned by him throughout the world. It is his first visit in the country in six years.

Like Sir Thomas Lipton, Lord Leverhulme began life in moderate circumstances. His remarkable business acumen and wonderful ability, soon brought him into prominence as one of the leading merchants of England. His soap and fishing enterprises became world-wide.

REMARKABLE AIRPLANE VIEW OF VATICAN GROUNDS



INTERNATIONAL

SALVATIONISTS TO FEED 3,000 CHILDREN

Churches and Penal Institutions of Boston Also to Observe Thanksgiving

The churches are all prepared for the Thanksgiving Day services tomorrow. Special arrangements have been made for State Guardsmen and other service men who will be unable to be at home, and the Salvation Army has everything in order for its dinner to 3,000 needy children.

The children will be treated to an entertainment, will hear an address by General Charles H. Cole, who will tell them of the children in wartime France, and, finally, will sit down to their turkey dinner and be waited upon by society girls of the Back Bay and Brookline.

The Boston Young Men's Christian Union will keep open house all day, special dinners will be served, and the evening given over to dancing. Many other organizations have joined in the move to give a temporary home to the many who cannot reach their own firesides for the holiday.

Harvard men who come from distant cities and towns will make Brooks House their mecca tomorrow. Open house will be the rule there, and a concert and addresses will provide the entertainment. Nearly all the churches will take up collections for those in Armenia and Serbia who have not the opportunities for thanksgiving that is America's. Cardinal O'Connell will officiate at the requiem high mass to be celebrated at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross tomorrow. The mass is offered for the deceased officers and members of the Irish County Associations. Members of the associations will meet at Deacon Hall and march to the Cathedral.

Even the prisoners at the various penal institutions will not be forgotten. At Charlestown State Prison, at Charles Street Jail, at Deer Island, and at Concord Reformatory, plans have been made for special dinners and entertainments for the inmates. The prisoners will have practically the whole day for liberty in the yards.

Marriage Makes Hero Stepfather to His Half-Sisters

By Universal Service.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 26.—James Calguire, a veteran of the A. E. F., will acquire the added distinction next Sunday of becoming the stepfather of his four little half-brothers and half-sisters. Calguire, who is twenty-eight, has obtained a license to marry his stepmother, Josephine Calguire, twenty-four. His father, who married Josephine Enzio, twenty-seven years his junior, five years ago, died while James was in France.

PASTOR IS FREED ON GIRL'S CHARGES

Frederick Nicholson, pastor of the Universal Spiritual Church, was absolved of a statutory charge upon which he was indicted last January, when Judge Brown in the Suffolk Superior Court supported the plea of Nicholson was indicted on the statements of Ethel D. McFarlane before the Grand Jury, in which she alleged Nicholson proposed marriage to her as the climax of his wooing. Nicholson was represented by Attorney Samuel L. Ballen, of the law firm of Ballen & Leveroni.

SERVICES FOR WIFE OF REV. N. S. HOAGLAND

Concord, Nov. 26.—The funeral of Mrs. Julia Annie (Comley) Hoagland, wife of Rev. Napoleon S. Hoagland, a retired Unitarian clergyman, was held this afternoon at No. 17 Lexington road, with the Rev. Loren B. Macdonald, minister of the Concord First Parish Church, of which she was an attendant, officiating. Burial was in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

QUINCY WOMAN FREED; ARREST A MISTAKE

Exoneration Follows Story of Another Woman in Liberty Bond Theft Case

Mrs. Julia E. Bennett, out on bail on the charge of the larceny of a Liberty Bond, was shown to be innocent before Judge Avery in Quincy Court today. The judge asked the woman to come to court that he might exonerate her fully, but she refused and said that a gross injustice had been done her, and that she would consult a lawyer about further action.

A month ago Mrs. Bennett was brought into court on the complaint of Mrs. Catharine Pratt, who charged that the woman had stolen a Liberty Bond from her. A Boston pawnbroker identified the woman as one who had sold him the bond. She was found guilty and sentenced to the reformatory at Sherborn. She appealed and was released on bail.

Margaret Sullivan today appeared in court on the charge of larceny of a Liberty Bond, which, it developed, was the same bond that figured in the case against Mrs. Bennett. The pawnbroker positively identified the Sullivan woman as the one who sold him the bond, and the woman's story in addition completely exonerated Mrs. Bennett. There is a marked resemblance between the two women.

CAMBRIDGE BOY ASKS $5,000 FOR AUTO HURTS

E. H. Miller of Cambridge has been sued for $5,000 by Alfred Birch, a minor, who sues through his father, John Birch of Cambridge. He alleges that while walking on Brookline street, Cambridge, he was injured by the defendant's automobile.

PRIZE TURKEY NEARLY ESCAPES AT K. C. PARTY

Members of the Rose Croix Council, Knights of Columbus, engaged in a lively chase for a turkey when the bird, which was the prize at a whist party the council was giving in Longfellow Hall, Roxbury, made its escape. Deputy Fire Chief Daniel P. Sennott, deputy grand knight of the council, captured the bird after it had nearly broken up the game by a demonstration of air stunts, including looping the loop, tail spins, taxying and other capers.

A collection was taken for the American's Christmas Basket Fund. Thomas F. Phelan delivered a short address. The committee was headed by C. Joseph Connell, grand knight, assisted by Lecturer Francis A. Willhauck. The prize winners were: George H. Sullivan, Timothy F. Murphy, Arthur Morrison and J. J. Kellaskey. The prizes included a turkey, two chickens, a goblin and a squash.

U. S. COURT WILL TRY SMITH, BOY BANK CLERK

Pleads Not Guilty to Embezzlement of $4,000 From National Shawmut

Federal authorities are to try the case of Marshall F. Smith, the nineteen-year-old ex-teller of the National Shawmut Bank, charged with embezzling $4,000 from that institution, and captured after he had journeyed to the Pacific Coast in company with Florence N. Howard, another employe of the bank, although he was engaged to marry a Somerville girl.

Suffolk County formally turned the young bank clerk over to the Federal authorities today. Smith was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and pleaded not guilty. He was held in $1,000 bail, furnished by his father, Joseph H. Smith. The son lives with his father in Somerville.

Smith's case came before Judge Murray in the Boston Municipal Court today. The court ruled that, as the bank was a Federal one, the case came within the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts. Smith was rearrested by Deputy United States Marshal Bancroft, and brought before Commissioner Hayes. The case was continued until December 3.

Smith was engaged to Miss Ethel M. Michaud of Somerville at the time of his escape, and his first hearing was set for the date upon which they were to be married.

TROUBLE IN COAL FIELDS IS SUPPRESSED

Washington, Nov. 26.—Trouble in the coal fields on the Virginia-Kentucky line, where alleged radicals fired on miners returning to their work, has been suppressed, the Department of Justice announced today.

FREE ACCIDENT AND BENEFIT INSURANCE

American Woolen Company Announces New Plan; Provides for Motherhood

The American Woolen Company today announced to its employes a plan of free sick and accident benefits effective December 1. The plan includes every employe of the American Woolen Company and its subsidiary companies.

The basis on which these benefits are computed is as follows:

No employe is insured under the plan who is not on the payroll of the company on December 1, 1919, working for full time and full pay. An employe who is not at work on December 1 because of disability, will be insured from the date of his return to employment on full time and full pay. After December 7, 1919, new employes will be eligible after six months' continuous service.

Those on the payroll December 1, 1919, and who have been employed for less than six months, will receive forty per cent. of their average weekly income; over six months and not more than one year, fifty per cent.; over one year and not more than two, sixty per cent.; over two years and not more three, seventy per cent.; over three years and not more than four, seventy-five per cent.; four years and over, eighty per cent.

No employe will receive less than $8 per week nor more than $30 per week, regardless of his average weekly earnings.

These benefits will cover all cases of disability arising from sickness or accident inside or outside of the worker's place of employment.

The benefits will begin only after seven days' loss of time and will continue thereafter for a period not to exceed twenty-six continuous weeks.

Benefits for maternity cases, including any illness due to pregnancy, for employed women will be paid for a period of four weeks only, in amounts dependent on length of service, as outlined in the above plan.

PELICANS GIVE HUNTERS TASTE OF REAL SPORT

Koshkonong, Mo., Nov. 24.—A flock of pelicans gave huntsmen here a real taste of sport when the big birds volplaned into one of the small lakes bordering Koshkonong on the east in search of food.

Sportsmen brought down three of the visitors, which measured eight feet from tip to tip of their wings.

CHELSEA FIRE WHISTLE OUT OF COMMISSION

The Chelsea fire whistle has gone Bolshevik. It has refused absolutely to work since Armistice Day, when it was sadly overworked by zealous patriots. The fire whistle has had a varied career, being shunted hither and yon. At first it was on the Court House, but its crescendo disturbed the august court in the performance of its duty and the whistle was banished to Engine 1 on Everett street. Now it has gone on strike.

STUDENT FREIGHT "JUMPERS" ARRESTED

Oberlin, O., Nov. 24.—Oxford or bust was the motto of five Oberlin students who wanted to see Oberlin and Miami clash on the gridiron. And they were already busted.

They tried the side door Pullman route and were arrested at Galion. In police court it cost $9.50 each, and intervention of school authorities only lifted a ten-day jail sentence.

That Film on Teeth

Watch Them Whiten

As the film disappears. You will know then what clean teeth mean.

Your teeth are not clean. You can feel a slimy film. Probably the film has dimmed them—some tartar may have formed.

Your present methods of brushing do not end film, and that is the teeth's great enemy. Now we ask you to try a new method—try it at our cost—and compare results.

Film Can Be Ended Now

Most tooth troubles are due to that film.

It is film that discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

The film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. Brushing does not end it. No ordinary tooth paste can dissolve it. Night and day it may do a ceaseless damage. And millions find, as a result, that ordinary brushing does not save the teeth.

Now dental science, after many years, has found a film combatant. The facts have been proved by convincing clinical and laboratory tests. The method is today approved by leading dentists everywhere.

For home use this method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we are mailing 10-Day Tubes to all who ask, to let everyone see its effects.

The Pepsin Method

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

Science has found a harmless method of activating pepsin. The usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed barred.

Millions of teeth are being cleaned in this new way. You can see them everywhere—white, glistening teeth.

Send this coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Learn what clean teeth mean—see how they look. Then decide for yourself between the old methods and the new. Cut out the coupon now.

veils, stockings, scarfs and handkerchiefs

DAME Fashion is so arrogant! It's not enough for her if you go flower-gay in frocks, in blouses, even underwear. Your collars, too, veils, waistcoats, spats, your very handkerchiefs must be tricked out in lovely reds, blues, greens and yellows.

But you just can't find these joyful things in the shops—they're sorry—they keep "hoping to have them in soon."

Only now you can have them! You can wash your handkerchiefs, veils and collars every color in the rainbow.

Wash your spats and collars any color you like!

You just stash them with the wonderful new colored flakes—Twink. And they're not only laundered perfectly as though you did them with Lux—but they're daringly, bewitchingly gay!

Every one of the Twink colors was selected with the help of the highest authorities on the colors of women's clothes. These colors come out right—every shade without the slightest streakiness or dingy look. And so fast that you can wash your Twinked blouse or collar several times with Lux before you need Twink it again.

Amazingly easy and quick

In an instant the flakes have dissolved into a gay hot lather. In go your veils, collars, spats—or your blouse or nightgown—you work them about a few minutes, then squeeze the suds through and through. A good rinsing in cold water, a quick pressing, and all in this twinkling you've a whole adorable row of new accessories. And ribbons the sun has faded, stockings that are too pale, all are Twinked back to their first brightness.

All the stores have it

Get Twink today in two or three of your favorite colors and follow the simple directions that come with the package. Twink won't injure anything pure water alone won't harm.

Your druggist, the 5 and 10 cent stores, and all the department stores have Twink. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux).

Flesh	Bright Red	Navy Blue	Dark Green
Pink	Dark Red	Yellow	Light Gray
Coral	Baby Blue	Lavender	Taupe
Peach	Copenhagen	Purple	Bisque
Old Rose	Turquoise	Light Green	Dark Brown

HOW TO USE TWINK

For Flesh, Pink, Peach, Old Rose, Yellow and Lavender: You make a gay lather as hot as your hands will bear, and wash the garments just as with Lux, only rinsing in cold water.

For the other colors: You use salt, and boiling water. You work the garment about in the boiling hot Twink suds for five minutes, then add cold water until suds are cooled just enough for your hands to bear. Then squeeze the suds through, as with Lux, and rinse in cold water till the water runs clear.

The amounts to use are given in the directions that come with the Twink package.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

ULTIMATUM ON TREATY MADE BY G. O. P.

Republican Senators Declare Wilson Must Accept Reservations or Face Defeat

By Universal Service.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Republican reservations will have to be accepted by President Wilson or the treaty will not be ratified, according to the view taken by Senators remaining in Washington during the recess.

Senator Jones of Washington issued a statement declaring that the Lodge reservations must be agreed to except, possibly, for a change in the preamble, if the treaty is to be ratified. This was also held by other Senators who preferred not to be mentioned for the present.

ALL SEEKING CREDIT.

Every indication is that from now on each side is going to make an attempt to claim credit for the final outcome of the treaty fight.

Republican Senators declare that the administration forces will not be permitted to take the equivalent of the Lodge reservations and offer them under the label of Democratic authorship. Should this be attempted 38 Senators will vote to kill the treaty, it was declared by one prominent Senator.

Lines are drawn tighter than ever today, Senators said, and all further compromise must come from the White House, they declared. The Lodge reservations were described as the utmost compromise that Republicans can make. Political considerations will weigh heavier as the treaty fight goes on.

Many Senators believe that the treaty cannot be kept out of the next campaign now, and for that reason are jealously guarding any attempt by administration Senators to wrest credit for reconstructions by the Lodge forces.

PARTY PRIDE AT STAKE.

Every move from now on, it was said, must be interpreted from the point of view of party pride.

It developed today that this consideration was one of the foremost in leading the mild reservationist Republicans to stick so tightly to Lodge during the last hours of the extra session. They viewed President Wilson's desire to defeat the Lodge reservations as an attempt to discredit the Republican leader of the Senate.

One of the mild Republicans is said to have referred to a substitute reservation offered by Senator Hitchcock to Article 10 as "peanut politics" after he had compared it with the Lodge reservations and found only slight changes.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 35c.

Providence, Nov. 26.—John B. Cook, forty-nine, formerly of Boston, was found dead in the basement of his home at No. 21½ Warren street, from gas poisoning. A tube was lying near his body. Cook was employed as a marine engineer by the Commercial Transportation Company of Boston, but recently had been a jeweler. He is survived by his wife and three children.

Gaylor Leonard, of No. 18 Oak street, Boston, was found dying in the subway under the Union Station from poisoning, diagnosed as derived from nitre and Jamaica ginger. A bottle, half filled, was found in the man's clothing. Leonard was found by a railroad policeman and was believed to be dead. He was sent to the Rhode Island hospital.

Cecil Favors Admission of Germany to World League

By Universal Service.

Special Cable Dispatch.

London, Nov. 26.—The report from Paris that Britain is seeking to bring about the immediate admission of Germany into the League of Nations in virtual substitution for the United States, as a result of the American Senate's rejection of the treaty, is the chief topic of political and diplomatic discussion here today.

Lord Robert Cecil, foremost advocate of the league in Britain, made this statement:

"I have always advocated Germany's admission to the league as soon as she can be trusted. The attitude of the United States has not affected my opinion."

DENIES SHIPPING FIRM IS TO BE SOLD BRITISH

New York, Nov. 26.—P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine, issued a denial of a story appearing in English and American newspapers to the effect that the great shipping company was to be given over to British control. "The International Mercantile Marine is purely an American corporation," he said.

GERMAN BUYS MEXICAN LAND TO FOUND COLONY

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 26.—Reports reached here of the purchase by German interests of great tracts of land in Durango, Mexico, to be used for German colonization purposes. A tract costing approximately $2,000,000 is said to have been purchased by Carl Hallenberg, a prominent Hamburg banker. Germans are reported paying high prices for land in other sections of Mexico.

Reds Plan Invasion from Mexico, Says Sen. Watson

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 26.—Carranza is preparing to turn the Mexican government over to the revolutionists who are organized with the Russian Soviet and are planning to invade the United States and establish a Soviet government in this country.

This startling statement was made by Senator James E. Watson of Indiana in a talk before the American Club, according to the Indiana Daily Times. Senator Watson said he knew this to be a fact, the Times says. Senator Watson is quoted as saying that the Soviet government is planned to be established in Colorado.

FIVE AUTOS IN CRASH, ONE DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Five automobiles figured in a collision on Massachusetts avenue near Chauncey street, Cambridge. The cars were all more or less damaged, but no one was seriously injured.

The police say that the collision was the fault of Louis D. Newell of No. 1, twenty-three Winter street, Somerville, who was operating a car owned by the H. E. Sawin's Express Company of Chelsea. Newell was arrested charged with reckless driving.

XMAS PIANO SALE NOW ON

No Shortage—No High Prices Here

J. P. Collins—Boston's Piano King

ACCORDING to the newspapers, there is a big shortage of pianos in Boston, and, of course, that means that prices are high and will be higher before Christmas. But there will be no higher prices on this floor. I am keeping prices down and refuse to profiteer, shortage or no shortage.

My 1919 Christmas Piano Exhibition and Sale surpasses in magnitude, beauty and bargains all my previous displays and offerings.

MY Big Xmas Cut Price Piano Sale is now on—into it I have put my entire stock of New Pianos marked down to figures that have given me my national reputation for low price piano selling. I am severely criticised for selling pianos at such ridiculously low prices. However, I fail to see how anyone is going to suffer from my low prices but myself, and I intend to continue my policy of big sales and small profits. I have often told the public that I preferred to sell 100 pianos at $1 apiece profit than to sell one piano at $100 profit.

WHY not be just as careful and economical in the purchase of the Piano as you are in the buying of furniture, clothing and other merchandise. You are probably more familiar with other various merchandise values than you are with Piano values. It is this unfamiliarity with pianos, their construction, cost, etc., that makes it difficult for you to judge of the fairness or unfairness of piano prices. I will try to show you how to save $100 on the puchase of any make piano you desire.

J. P. COLLINS.

The New Valley Club of Roxbury has voted to give 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of a dance to be conducted in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street, Roxbury, Thanksgiving night, to the basket fund. It is the club's tenth annual. Two orchestras will play, without intermission, from 8 p. m. until 2 a. m. Four cups and a silk banner are to be awarded during the evening in voting contests.

These prizes were donated by City Councillors Ford, MacDonald, Moriarty and Watson and William A. Gaston. The committee in charge is William J. Kelley, chairman; Edward L. Englert, Miss Lillian Walsh, Miss Laura J. Cameron, Miss Margaret Hurher and Richard Sullivan. A big crowd is expected.

George H. Lawson has engaged the High School of Practical Arts in Roxbury for Saturday night for a meeting in the interest of the basket fund. Mr. Lawson has invited a number of leading men and women to be present as speakers and he hopes to enrich the fund by a large amount.

E. H. Richards of Dorchester sent a contribution of $5 to the fund with a note reading: "Having personally delivered baskets in past years and knowing personally the good done and the pleasure to those who received them, I take pleasure in adding my small offering to the worthy cause."

Jessie Lufkin writes: "Enclosed please find one dollar towards the Christmas Basket Fund. I think it splendid of you big hearted men to do so much for the needy. For my part I could not enjoy my Christmas if I did not try to make someone poorer than myself happy at that beautiful and holy time. I just love Christmas."

Another person wrote: "Enclosed find one dollar for the Christmas Basket Fund. I know it isn't much. If I had plenty not one child would go without dinner on Christmas day."

Anna Clancy sent a dollar "to help some little children to get a Christmas dinner. I am thirteen years old and know that I will be well taken care of at Christmas time and would be glad to know that every child will be fixed the same. I think the Boston American is doing a great charity."

APPEALS HEART RENDING.

Many letters are received daily from families whom fortune has not been smiling on. Some of the missives follow:

Dear Sir: Will you please send us a basket for Christmas? I am the mother of five children, and expect another little one soon. My husband went out in June and I have not seen him since. I am unable to work, and although we never had much when he was here, we have less now. My youngest child is two years old and the oldest eleven. They have no warm clothes and I am afraid they will get sick going to school with so few clothes on them. Please try and send up a basket. I don't care what it is as long as it is something plain so that my children can have one good meal. God bless you and your wonderful paper.

Dear Boston American Editor: I am a little girl eleven years of age. We will not have any Christmas dinner if you do not send us one. I am the oldest of seven children. My father does not work steady, and the little he does earn is not enough to support us. After school my brother and I go out picking up coke and chips of wood. This is the first time that I have ever asked for anything, and I ask now because we need it very much. I hope you will not forget us.

5 CHILDREN—HUSBAND ILL.

Dear Sirs: I am writing to you and hope that you will send me a Christmas basket, as I am very much in need of your help. I have five children, the oldest eleven years and the youngest two years old. My husband sprained his ankle and cannot work steady. If we could afford it he would stay home until his ankle was cured, but we can't, so he works one day, and has to stay home the next, and he suffers a great deal. Now, dear sir, please try and send me one of your baskets, as I cannot afford to buy even the plainest food for the children, and would like to give them a good dinner on Christmas Day.

I will have the children pray to God to give you health and strength to carry on the good work which you have started.

Dear Sir—I am writing to ask you if you will not give a basket to a poor woman that I know. Her husband left her with two little children over eight years ago, and that woman has been washing and froning ever since to support her little ones. Her children go to school, and at noon get their dinner themselves, which she has prepared for them the night before. She works out every day and works home evenings. I have seen that poor woman myself putting out clothes at ten o'clock at night and later. I hope you will please do something for her, as she certainly deserves to be remembered.

Dear Sir: I hope you will send me a basket on Christmas morning, as I will not have any dinner if you don't. I have four small children, aged four years, three years, sixteen months and three months. My husband has not been working for nearly a month, and as I am sick I cannot work either. We owe a great many bills, and haven't a cent in the house. I would be very thankful if you would send me a basket, as I will not be able to give the children a good dinner like other children will have.

Cheap, quick way to stop rheumatism

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

Are you willing to be convinced that sore, stiff, aching joints or muscles can be relieved and rheumatism greatly benefitted if not entirely conquered, for the insignificant sum of 25c.

Sounds too good to be true, doesn't it, yet thousands of people who had rheumatism have found that it can be done, and thousands more are doing it today.

You've tried the high priced and expensive things, found that they failed—you still have your trouble, why not try this simple, economical, yet sensible plan, and let results speak for themselves?

Just get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and begin taking it tonight. It acts on the digestive and eliminative organs, improving digestion and assimilation and clearing the body of accumulated waste, impurities and poison. With good digestion and assimilation, the body is nourished and vitality and natural power of resistance against disease greatly increased. With the kidneys and bowels acting vigorously and regularly and the body freed from irritating poisons, relief must come.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) though mild and gentle in action, does its work thoroughly and quickly. There is nothing harmful in it, nothing to upset the stomach, and no griping, pain or any discomfort. The only result is pleasant, glorious, welcome relief and benefit.

Try it—you take no risk in doing so for Nature's Remedy costs only 25c (enough to last twenty-five days), and is sold with the distinct understanding that it must relieve and benefit or money back.

More than one million people in this country are using Nature's Remedy today. Five million boxes are used every year. What better proof of its great merit could be offered? It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist?

BOLSHEVISM IS DEFENDED BY MISS SCUDDER

Wellesley Professor Protests Dr. Van Allen's Attack on Sympathetic Educators

Miss Vida D. Scudder of Wellesley College took exception today to the stand of Dr. William Harman van Allen, rector of the Church of the Advent, in his address upon "Christian Democracy" before the Episcopalian Club of Massachusetts, in which Dr. van Allen denounced Bolshevism as "a propaganda of the religion of hell," and flayed the educators, "in Boston, Cambridge, and Wellesley, who apologize for Bolshevism and incite our people against old-fashioned Americanism."

Miss Scudder, who is associate professor of English Literature at Wellesley College, a novelist and eminent authority on the history and literature of the Middle Ages, as well as an intense advocate of social reform, asserted that Bolshevism, as understood by most Americans, was abhorrent to her, but that she considered that the term "Bolshevist" was often misinterpreted, and that the Russian experiment should have a fair chance without the injustice of the present blockade. She maintained the right of free speech in schools and colleges, and denounced the un-Americanism of the Sedition Bill.

DENOUNCES RUSSIAN BLOCKADE.

"Bolshevism as currently understood in this country," said Miss Scudder, "is abhorrent to me. However I am aware that the current understanding may be entirely erroneous. I have not the direct knowledge of what is going on in Russia which would enable me to pass judgment on it one way or another. So far as I can understand, the Soviet idea of functional rather than topographical democracy, is full of interest. I believe that the effort to suppress the Soviet government by means of blockade is one of the worst crimes in history and that the Russian experiment should be allowed a fair chance.

"As regards freedom of discussion, of course all Liberals are amazed and shocked at the facile denial of the most sacred American tradition implied in the Sedition Bill. We thought that our country had outgrown the childish idea that false conceptions could be fought by suppressing them, and that we had more faith in the power of truth to prevail in an open field.

REPUDIATES VIOLENCE.

"The college teacher, reverencing youth as he must do, will be guided by his pedagogical instinct to take great care as to what he says within the college in these heated times. But he will retain his own dignity only as he claims the right to be himself the judge as to what these principles of sound pedagogy will involve.

"Confiscation, violence, and defiance of the law are to be repudiated vigorously by all right-minded people, whether they occur in Russia or in the United States."

BRITISH NIP EGYPTIAN RAILWAY STRIKE PLOT

London, Nov. 26.—Inflammatory documents containing plans for a general strike on the Egyptian railways were seized by the British troops in a raid at Cairo, said a news agency dispatch from Cairo today.

Men were to be armed to kill all volunteer workers.

OTTERSON BODY LIKELY TO BE EXHUMED

Report Medical Examiner Magrath Will Be Called Into Murder Case

Concord, N. H., Nov. 26.—Developments are expected within a few days in the Otterson murder case that may lead to exhuming of the body of Maurice Otterson, who was killed by a bullet which fractured his skull and for whose murder his sister-in-law, Mrs. Marion L. Otterson, is now under arrest.

As an official statement by officials leads to the opinion that Dr. George H. Magrath, medical examiner of Suffolk County, Massachusetts, may be called into the case. If Dr. Magrath enters the case it is believed that the body will be exhumed.

It is expected that a conference will be held following the arrival of Dr. Magrath at which County Solicitor H. W. Rainie, Attorney-General O. L. Young and possibly Detective James R. Wood, will be present.

OHIO WOULD DOUBLE TAX ON SMOKES TO AID HEALTH

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 26.—Cigarettes will help preserve the health of Ohio, if a plan of the health department is approved.

It is proposed to double the cigarette tax, which now yields about $250,000 a year, and use the increased revenue for health purposes.

The first Turkish blend cigarette was Fatima. And today the first choice of experienced smokers is Fatima.

It contains more Turkish than any other Turkish blend cigarette—but not enough to be overrich, like the straight Turkish brands.

Our Profit from all Sources

When Swift & Company says its profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound, many believe we are not telling the whole story—that there are hidden profits.

Here Are The Facts:

Our net profit on our entire business for the year 1918 amounted to only 1.76 cents per dollar of sales, or less than one-half cent per pound, and

1. Included profits from hides and all other by-products.
2. Included profits from all sundry side-lines.
3. Included profits on all subsidiary corporations.
4. To sum up—it included the entire profit from every source of revenue in which Swift & Company has any interest. There are no other profits.

Furthermore our accounts have been checked and certified annually by leading public accounting firms.

Swift & Company is sincerely trying to get the facts before the public. If you have any questions regarding our business—write us—and we will do our best to answer them. In discussing the packing business be sure you have the facts and that you are not unintentionally spreading misinformation.

If you get the facts we have no doubt as to the verdict

INDIGESTION!

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. The pepsin, the most effective of all the digestants, helps to digest the food and the laxative properties act on the bowels. It aids the digestive organs to work naturally so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

You can buy a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store for 50c and $1, the latter sufficient to enable an entire family to enjoy food for months.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, there being over 5 million bottles sold each year, many who need its benefits have not yet used it. If you have not, send your name and address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 111 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

COOLIDGE'S LEAD OFFICIALLY SET AT 125,101

Heavy Vote for 4 Per Cent. Beer Gets a Setback by a Joker in the Law

FOR GOVERNOR.

Calvin Coolidge	317,776
Richard H. Long	192,673
Coolidge plurality	125,103

The official figures give the Governor about 1,600 more than the press returns on election night.

The wave of opinion against honest-dry prohibition is also made evident by the official figures. The 4 per cent. beer bill, under the public opinion act, carried all the forty senatorial districts and all but one of the eighty-seven representative districts in which it was placed on the ballot. In Melrose alone it failed, the vote there being 1,478 yes to 2,524 no.

JOKER IN BEER LAW.

But there is a "joker" in the law the doubtless some of the legislators will take advantage of when 4 per cent. arises for discussion in the next legislature. The public opinion act provides that the question submitted must receive a majority equal to half of the highest vote cast in the district on election day. The "yes" majority failed to reach that proportion in twelve districts.

And the Council gravely and carefully announces:

"And the representative from the above districts, with the exception of the 26th Middlesex Representative District appear to be so instructed."

LANGTRY HIGH MAN.

Secretary of State Langtry, however, enjoys the largest plurality. He defeated Charles H. McGlue of Lynn, the Democratic candidate, by 297,137 to 166,995. The smallest plurality among the winning Republicans was given to Treasurer-elect Fred J. Burrell. He won by 75,791 over Chandler M. Wood, the Democratic candidate, who was the recipient of active Republican support.

The legislative act prohibiting the payment of monthly interest on savings bank deposits was accepted by a vote of 257,126 to 110,412. The rearranged constitution was ratified by a vote of 262,359 to 64,937.

Senator Walter E. DeLane of Fall River was the nearest approach to being an unanimous candidate. He received 10,199 votes. All others received one vote.

QUINCY BUSINESS MEN VOTE AGAINST JITNEYS

The vote was taken following a talk by Homer Loring, chairman of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway board of trustees. He told the Chamber of Commerce that if jitneys were allowed the chamber might appoint a committee to dictate service to the trolley lines. He could not state what the fares would be but promised to restore the lines to Squantum and Norfolk Downs.

He prophesied better service, better equipment, and a reduction in fare, sixteen tickets for $1. He pointed to the success which the running of the jitneys meant to the Hough's Neck line and promised to restore the lines to Squantum and Norfolk Downs.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES TO DEMAND RAISE

Washington, Nov. 26.—New wage adjustments will be demanded from Director-General Hines of the Railroad Administration on December 1, Vice-President James B. Maloy of the Brotherhood of Railway Maintenance of Way Employes and Shopmen announces.

He stated that the agreement just signed did not settle the wage question and that adjustment of wages between all workers would be asked. Demands for wage increases in accordance with the advances in the cost of living will be renewed later, it was announced by Maloy.

JAIL LAWRENCE MAN FOR THEFT

Haverhill, Nov. 26.—J. Frank Williams, alias Osgood, alias Fairbanks, seventy-six years old, of No. 131 Broadway, Lawrence, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Judge Winn in Central District Court.

Williams pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying a revolver without a permit and was found guilty on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny from the home of Carmen Shupe, No. 17 William street, where, it is alleged, he secured a gold ring, valued at $25; a locket and chain, valued at $5, and a revolver, valued at $20.

URGES SUITABLE HOMES FOR WORKMEN

North Adams, Nov. 26.—Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, N. Y., at a luncheon for members of the local Chamber of Commerce, urged the taking of steps to provide suitable homes for workingmen here.

He also made a plea for a more general combination of business with religion, and advocated higher wages for school teachers, declaring that unless the school wage is revised upward the country soon will find itself in dire straits relative to educating the coming generations.

CHILD FOUND PLAYING WITH RATTLESNAKE

Pleasant Ridge, Me., Nov. 26.—A Pleasant Ridge father was horrified recently when he came upon his five-year-old daughter in the back yard of his home making friends with a rattlesnake. The child was stroking the reptile's back, apparently much to her new friend's enjoyment.

Terror-stricken as he was, the father acted quickly. Approaching the child and snake from one side, he struck the unwelcome playmate with a stick in one hand and snatched the baby out of danger with the other.

CALL GIRL IN LOVE SUIT 'JULES VERNE'S EQUAL'

Mrs. Jesse Metcalf, whose husband, a Harvard graduate and member of the Essex County Club, has been sued by Miss Beverly Juneau, who charges he promised to marry her.

New York, Nov. 26.—"Jules Verne" had nothing on Miss Beverly Juneau," in the opinion of John V. Bouvier, Jr., attorney for Jesse Metcalf, wealthy clubman and woolen merchant. Miss Juneau charges Mr. Metcalf with breach of promise and demands balm of $100,000.

Mr. Bouvier said:

"Miss Juneau has the greatest imagination since the time of Jules Verne. Her tale is absolutely false from beginning to end. We deny her charges in toto.

"They are made of whole cloth and are positively without the slightest foundation. We have answered with a general denial and we will stand on this answer.

"Of course, Mr. Metcalf knew this woman. But so did a number of other young men. As for asking Miss Juneau to marry him—the charges are ridiculous from start to finish."

Miss Juneau remains in seclusion. At the Hotel Des Artistes, where she has lived for more than a year, it was said she had left suddenly last Friday night and had not been seen since.

Miss Juneau is titian-haired and twenty-four years old. She was born in Chicago and went to Los Angeles, where she was featured in several motion pictures. From California she came to New York about two years ago.

BANDIT, WHO GOT U. S. RANSOM, DIES IN FIGHT

Mexican Leader Shot in Quarrel Over Division of $13,000 Received for Army Fliers

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 26.—Jesus Rinteria, the Mexican bandit, who was caught by the American Army, was shot to death by two of his companions in a quarrel over what was left of $13,000 they received as ransom for Lieutenants Paul H. Davis and H. G. Peterson, American aviators who were forced to land in Mexico last August. News of the slaying of the bandit has just reached here.

Rinteria was leader of one of the most notorious bands in northern Mexico. Scores of crimes were charged to him, among them being that of the assassination of a United States mail carrier.

When Lieutenants Davis and Peterson were forced to land in the northern state of Mexico they were made prisoners by Rinteria. He demanded heavy ransom under threat of death.

The American army was sent to capture Rinteria, but after some two weeks the trail was abandoned, and the troops came out of Mexico without their quarry.

11 CHILDREN AT GOLDEN WEDDING

Williamstown, Nov. 26.—A family reunion, attended by their eleven children, marked a quiet observance of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Lapan of Hall street. They were married in Redford, N. Y., and have resided in Williamstown for 34 years. They also have 16 grandchildren. Both are in good health.

CLOSE VOTE ELECTS DEMOCRAT IN FRANKLIN

Franklin, N. H., Nov. 26.—Daniel Nelson Whittaker, Democratic candidate for the mayoralty election, defeated his opponent, Harry F. Davis, Republican, by a majority of 34 votes. The contest was one of the most bitterly contested in years.

Dr. James B. Woodman, Republican, and Dr. Alphonse Legace, Democrat, both former service men, were elected to the City Council.

WEYMOUTH JITNEYS CONTINUE TO OPERATE

Although Weymouth accepted the so-called "Jitney Act" at a special town meeting held last Friday, the jitneys continue to operate, and jitney owners doubt whether they can be made to discontinue operations.

The Weymouth Selectmen are doubtful as to how far their authority extends. A meeting of the Selectmen will follow a conference in the State House on Friday and will be held at the Selectmen's office.

New Five-Cent Line Will Be Tried in Charlestown

General Manager Edward Dana of the Boston Elevated Railway Company announces the establishment of a five-cent line without transfers between Sullivan Square Terminal and Hanover Street via Bunker Hill and Washington streets. In connection with this announcement he says:

"The total revenue secured from the operation of the five-cent line between Rowes Wharf and North Station via Federal street has been much less than the operating expenses. The total passengers carried average only twenty per round trip and the speed averages between four and five miles per hour. It has been decided for the above reason to discontinue the operation of this experimental line on Saturday, November 29.

"In order to experiment still further with this type of line, designed to attract passengers not now using the service, beginning Saturday, November 29, a five-cent service without transfers will be operated between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. from Sullivan Square Terminal to Hanover street via Bunker Hill and Washington streets."

BIG LINER ASHORE ON GODWIN SANDS, ENG.

Dover, Eng., Nov. 26.—A large vessel, believed to be a liner, went ashore today upon Godwin sands. Tugs were rushed to her assistance.

G. O. P. IN SOUTH DAKOTA FOR GEN. WOOD

Lowden of Illinois Is Second Choice of Party for Presidential Nomination

By International News Service.

Mitchell, S. D., Nov. 26.—Major-General Leonard Wood, Republican candidate for President; Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, second choice.

Reports from county proposal conventions throughout the State, received at Republican State headquarters here today, indicate the above to be the choice of Republicans of this State in the coming presidential election.

The reports indicate that Major-General Wood will receive the votes of 30,000 proposals, while Governor Lowden will receive about 8,000. Should Senator Hiram Johnson of California enter the South Dakota primaries it must be in the Independent column of the Republican party ballot.

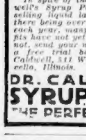
The Democrats will hold their convention at Pierre on December 2.

VICTORY PLANT WORKERS WILL NOT LOSE JOBS

News that Secretary Daniels had decided to continue the Victory plant at Squantum was received by the hundreds of workmen there with great cheers. The plant is to be used as a repair station for torpedo boat destroyers and submarines.

Federal Manager Samuel W. Wakeman states that he has no official advice regarding the Navy Department's disposition of the plant.

NUXATED IRON



If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: see how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of NUXATED IRON three times per day for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Many people have made this test and have been astonished at their increased strength, endurance and energy. Nuxated Iron is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. At all good druggists.

To Avoid Rough, Coarse, Chapped, Blotchy Skin

Most shine require constant grooming at this season to keep them from becoming unduly red, blotchy, rough or harsh, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such case it is particularly indadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores and make the complexion worse than ever.

It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a specks complexion. Apply the wax like cold cream, before retiring. Next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or more and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, white, velvety and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax procurable at any druggist's, is all you'll need.—Advertisement.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Few Drops of "Freezone," Then Corns Lift Off—No Pain!

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs so little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon any corn or callus and instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off with your fingers. Truly! No humbug.—Advertisement.

Society Ladies Adopt New Hair Curling Method

Since the introduction of liquid slimerine in this country, it has become quite "the proper thing" among society women, who have readily adopted it in place of the destructive curling iron. The waves and curls acquired by the new method are far more natural in appearance, and the hair is of course glossier and prettier than could be if the life were cooked out of it.

The liquid is pleasant to use, being neither greasy nor sticky. It is a simple thing to apply with a clean tooth brush at night when the hair is down. The lovely wavy effect in evidence in the morning is all that one could wish for. It costs little to use liquid slimerine, as a few ounces from the druggist will keep the hair in curl for weeks.—Advertisement.

ANALYZE BOMB BOTTLES TAKEN FROM REDS

New York, Nov. 26.—Experts today began analyzing a score of chemicals and explosives, including a nefarious bottle of TNT, which was discovered in a secret chamber when the headquarters of the United Russian Workers was raided by detectives last night. The detectives were seeking several radical agitators with warrants and the secret laboratory was discovered by accident.

Credit for finding the hidden laboratory goes to Detective Browne of the Bomb Squad. While still on a detailed drop, going somewhere below 50 degrees, the drop in temperature may arrive, it is said, before the weather clears, bringing a flurry of boisterous snow.

Rain which was falling today in the middle New England States extends northward to the southwest to the Mississippi Valley, while in the Southern Atlantic States a heavy rain is reported. In Nashville, Tenn., 2.54 inches are recorded.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TELLS SECRET

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ½ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off."

BANISH CATARRH

Breathe Hyomei for Two Minutes and Relieve Stuffed-Up Head

If you want to get relief from catarrh, cold in the head or any irritating cough in the shortest time, breathe Hyomei.

It should clear out your head and open up your nose in two minutes and allow you to breathe freely at once.

Hyomei will soothe a cold in one day and purge your head of the mucus and hard crusts in the nose, hawking, spitting and headache.

Hyomei is made chiefly from a soothing, healing antiseptic that comes from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia, where Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Influenza, Pneumonia and Consumption were never known to exist.

Hyomei is pleasant and easy to breathe. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler, use as directed and get relief at once.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little at druggists everywhere. If you already have an inhaler you may get an extra bottle of Hyomei at druggists.

For Itching Eczema, Old Sores and Piles

"I guarantee my ointment," says Peterson of Buffalo, "to heal any case of itching at once and any reliable druggist will cheerfully refund your money if PETERSON'S OINTMENT fails in everything I say it will do."

Then there is Alex. Loutzel, a brave fireman of Buffalo, who is glad to write as follows: "I had an old sore on my leg for many years. The best doctors failed. PETERSON'S OINTMENT entirely healed my sore at once." And from over in Canada comes a letter from A. Rochon, stating: "I have used PETERSON'S OINTMENT for itching piles; PETERSON'S OINTMENT A big box for 65 cents. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Get Out Umbrellas and Overcoats for Thanksgiving

Folks who have been fortunate enough to be invited out to eat old New England turkey tomorrow are advised to keep the rain-coats and umbrellas where they can be easily located. It is also advised by Weather Forecaster Smith of the Weather Bureau that the furs and heavy Winter wraps be kept handy, for there is a cold wave, which extends over the West and Northwest, the tail of which will strike the New England States by tomorrow night, bringing with it freezing weather.

Shortly after the clearing, which will come late tomorrow, the thermometer will take a decided drop, going somewhere below 50 degrees. This drop in temperature may arrive, it is said, before the weather clears, bringing a flurry of boisterous snow.

Rain which was falling today in the middle New England States extends northward to the southwest to the Mississippi Valley, while in the Southern Atlantic States a heavy rain is reported. In Nashville, Tenn., 2.54 inches are recorded.

THOUSANDS TO STRIKE IF BILL IS PASSED

One thousand machinists, representing the 4,000 machinists in Lynn, at a meeting voted unanimously to strike if the Cummins anti-strike bill passes Congress at the December session. If the strike goes into effect it will tie up the entire electric power company of Lynn and throw 17,000 employes out of work.

Twenty-five hundred of the 4,000 machinists of Lynn are employed at that plant.

The business agent, Ambrose M. Mahoney, has been summoned to Washington to attend a conference of business agents and organizers of the International Brotherhood of Machinists of America. It was believed that they voted to assess themselves $1 a month for six months. Robert Feehan, president of the Lynn Central Labor Union, is also to attend. Feehan is an organizer of organized labor in general. Other unions will follow suit in Lynn, in Schenectady, Pittsfield, Fort Wayne and other plants of the General Electric Company, where about 100,000 men are employed.

BRANDS CLAIM TO PAINTINGS AS FALSE

"Practically every statement of Mrs. Judson in connection with the portraits is false," flatly declared Louise Cutts Powell today to an American representative in reference to the claims of her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Cutts Judson of Omaha, to ownership of two famous oil paintings.

Mrs. Judson has threatened to bring suit against Miss Powell, a noted lecturer and writer of this city, who she asserts removed the paintings without authority from the warehouse of the Omaha Van & Storage Company, subsequently exhibiting them throughout the country.

AMAZED AT CLAIM.

Miss Powell received the representative of the American in her rooms at the Brunswick.

"I am amazed that my aunt should make such statements," she exclaimed. "The assertion that the paintings in question, which are of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cutts, her great grand-parents and my great-great grand-parents, belong to her is without the least foundation. Of the fact I have ample proof.

"Here is the whole history of the affair in a nutshell. My grandmother, Annie S. Cutts, who was also Mrs. Judson's mother, took care of me from the time I was a baby, and I was brought up with Mrs. Judson and her sister. My grandmother and I were very much attached to each other, so much so in fact, that upon her death it was found that I had been made executrix of her estate, rather than either of her daughters.

PAID STORAGE ON PORTRAITS.

"When the will was read, I was given the two paintings. The will is still preserved, and this document alone offers sufficient proof that the pictures are mine, and Mrs. Judson has no claim whatever upon them.

"At the time of my grandmother's death, these paintings, together with a number of other family heirlooms, were in an Omaha warehouse. I went to that city, and Mrs. Judson assisted me in distributing them in accordance with the terms of the will. Her share, and that of her sister, were removed from the storehouse. I left my share there for five years. I have in my possession now receipted bills showing that I paid storage on the paintings during that five-year period.

"If Mrs. Judson had any claim to make as to the ownership of the pictures, she surely would not have postponed it for that length of time. When, two years ago, the estate was closed, she failed to assert her possession of the paintings.

"Mrs. Judson says that she did not know that I took the pictures out of storage and brought them East. This declaration surprises me beyond measure." Miss Powell went to her desk and produced a bundle of letters. "Here is a communication from Mrs. Judson," she said, "from which I want you to read an extract."

READS AUNT'S LETTER.

The passage from the letter reads as follows: "I feel terribly that you have brought the pictures East."

"Does it not seem funny?" laughed Miss Powell, "that my aunt would have written in that letter that she did not know that the pictures had been brought East."

Miss Powell here in another letter, in which my aunt tells me that I should make a will, leaving the paintings to her and her sister Lilly. Would she make that request if they already belonged to her? You see how utterly absurd the entire thing is, and how at a loss I am to account for Mrs. Judson's conduct. It really sounds more like raving."

LYNN MAYOR WITHHOLDS ACTION ON KREISLER CASE

Mayor Walter H. Creamer of Lynn has failed to act upon the protest sent to his office by American Legion Post No. 6 of Lynn, which asks that the license granted Fritz Kreisler, violinist and ex-officer of the Austrian army, to give a concert at the Olympia Theatre in Lynn tonight be revoked. Mayor Creamer stated that he is not certain whether the matter lies within his jurisdiction or that of the city licensing board, which granted the permit. He has declined to give an opinion until he has received information from the office of the city solicitor as to his authority in the affair. The action of the Legion was taken at a meeting where the vote stood 58 to 126 in favor of demanding that Kreisler be prohibited from performing in Lynn. The feeling of the general public in the city does not seem opposed to Kreisler's appearance.

If Thin and Nervous Try Bitro-Phosphate

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals, it is a well-known fact that the lack of nourishing Organic Phosphates is very largely responsible for this condition.

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorous may now be met by the use of Bitro-Phosphate, which can be obtained from any good druggist in convenient tablet form.

In many instances the assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue soon produces a welcome change—nerve tension disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness, and lack of energy and the whole body loses its ugly hollows and angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty and the will and strength to be up and doing.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care to avoid the fat-producing foods.—Advertisement.

TO DISCHARGE RECEIVER OF B. & M. ROAD

Judge Morton in Federal Court today announced his decision to discharge the receiver of the Boston & Maine railroad.

This action ends a long period of litigation, although minority stockholders say they will take their case against a reorganization before the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Morton gave his decision following the plea of Attorney George Wharton, representing the railroad, in which he stated that, if the receiver was discharged, financial aid would be given the road by the Federal Government and that the reorganization plan approved by the Public Service Commission would place the road upon a sound basis, which would allow it to pay all outstanding debts.

Since August, 1918, the Boston & Maine has been in the hands of James M. Hustis, the receiver.

The fight of the minority stockholders was carried to the last ditch.

Attorney Conrad W. Crooker, who appeared as counsel for Edward and Charles Brown of the minority holders, stated he did not wish to appear as an obstructionist, but, in view of the fact that his clients intended to carry their opposition to a reorganization of the road to the United States Supreme Court, he questioned the validity of dismissing the receiver.

Judge Morton, in reply, said that he did not consider that the removal of the receiver would effect the case.

The court announced that he would sign the necessary papers for the receiver's dismissal this afternoon.

Probably no other railroad has been so long the centre of contention as the Boston & Maine.

For many years, before the Legislature and in almost every court within this county, the battles between the minority and majority stockholders has been made the basis of litigation.

The final contest, which started three years ago, developed over the road's plans for reorganization.

The minority stockholders have thus far met with defeat. The only court left to their activity is the United States Supreme Court, before which they will appear shortly, according to the claims of Mr. Crooker today.

CHARGES ICE ON "L" STEP CAUSES INJURIES

The Boston Elevated Railway Company has been filed for $5,000 by Marion Hurley of Somerville, a minor, who sues through her father, John J. Hurley. She alleges that while alighting from a car at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Albany street, Cambridge, she slipped on some snow and ice on the car steps and was injured.

Stabs Friend in Row Over Letter From Sweetheart

Suspicion that his fellow lodger had read a letter from his sweetheart aroused the anger of Teddy Mouradian of Revere and he attacked John Mahakian with a knife. In Chelsea court Mouradian was fined $50 for assault. Mahakian was taken to the hospital and the knife wound was dressed.

Mouradian asked Mahakin if he "saw" the letter and Mahakian acknowledged that he had. This Mouradian interpreted as meaning that he had read it and the assault resulted. Mahakian explained to the court that he had seen the letter on a table in the lodging house, but knew nothing of its contents.

BRIDE OF 3 WEEKS CHOKED, SHE SAYS

Morris Liss of Washington avenue, Chelsea, was found guilty of assault and battery on his bride of less than three weeks in the Chelsea court today. The young wife testified that he had choked her and clenched her fist so badly that she has receiving treatments at the Chelsea Hospital. According to Mrs. Liss the husband started a quarrel because his shirts had not been mended. The husband said their troubles were due to his wife's desire to go to dances. She left their home and went to her mother's on Arlington street, where Liss followed and gain a $900 engagement ring. It is there that the assault took place. Judge Bosson placed the case on file.

MALDEN FIRE ELECTRICIAN DISCHARGED

Appeals to Court for Review of Hearing on Charge of Insubordination

Edward J. Butler, for the past three years chief electrician of the Malden fire department, was today discharged from the department, by Fire Commissioner John H. Hannan, on a charge of insubordination. Butler was suspended about two weeks ago. He was granted a hearing and the finding ordering his discharge was given out today.

It was charged he was ordered to transfer the city fire wiring from the plant of the Malden Electric Company to that of the Boston Rubber Shoe Company, and that he refused to do so, giving as his reason at the hearing, that the insulation of the wires at the rubber shoe plant required repairing before the whistle could be transferred.

Butler has appealed to the local District Court for a review of his case.

Pending the decision on his appeal Frederick D. MacDonald has been named acting electrician. Should the finding of the commissioner be upheld by the court MacDonald will be made permanent electrician of the department.

150 PER CENT. WAGE ADVANCE FOR EMPLOYES

Marlboro, Nov. 26.—The shoe cutters employed in the Marlboro and Webster factories of Corbin & Son today received a Thanksgiving present in the form of a $2.50 increase in pay. The rates will give the cutters a weekly wage of $47.50. The increase will go into effect at once. The new rates makes an advance of 150 per cent. over the pay of three years ago.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

BRIGHTON WIFE WINS AMERICAN TURKEY PRIZE

Expert Awards Attleboro Woman Second Place in Recipe Contest

The Turkey Editor of the American announces that the first prize of ten dollars for the best recipe to cook and stuff a turkey was won by Mrs. Celia Beaudoin, No. 15 Antwerp street, Brighton. The second prize of five dollars, goes to Mrs. H. Tamblier, No. 120 Newton street, Attleboro. Mrs. Beaudoin's dressing features oysters; Mrs. Tumbler's apples and chestnuts.

During the period that the contest ran, over one thousand letters came in to the Turkey Editor. Those were first read by the editor, and, in the end, five recipes were chosen as the best. Mrs. Herbert H. Darling, lecturer on household subjects at the Garland School of Home Making, was asked to make the final choice.

During the war Mrs. Darling was one of the patriotic band of women who toured the State under the Department of Agriculture, helping troubled housekeepers to cook patriotically things that would not be a burden to eat. The American was fortunate in its judge.

Mrs. Darling commended highly all the recipes that were submitted to her. In the end, however, she made her final choice, with two things much in mind. These were the excellent seasonings of the two successful recipes; the clearness of the directions and the balanced proportions. The recipes follow. Mrs. Beaudoin's, for roast turkey with an oyster dressing, first:

Clean out turkey thoroughly, saving heart, liver, and gizzard for gravy. Be careful to draw out the lungs. Wash very well and dry inside with clean towel, to take out all water. Cut grind from a piece of salt pork and chop very fine, having about three tablespoonfuls in all. Add medium sized onion, chopped. Have soaking, over night, a loaf of baker's bread with crust cut off; squeeze very dry and add to pork and onion. Then add to this one unbeaten egg, salt and pepper, and poultry dressing, and moisten with a little scalded milk. A dozen oysters chopped and added make this dressing delicious, but it is good without. Fill turkey body and crop not too full, and sew up. Tie the neck and rub body with salt. Put a piece of butter under each leg and hind, all together, to the body with string, and bring the knot up on the breast bone. Put turkey in pan and shake over it flour. Add one quart of water to pan; place in oven moderately heated, and allow from 20 to 25 minutes for each pound. Have half a cup of milk and hot water in a cup on the stove. Baste with this and with the turkey liquor, every half hour. Wash and prepare giblets. Put in saucepan, cover with cold water, and cook until tender. When turkey is done put on platter and sprinkle flour in the pan to thicken gravy. Add giblets chopped fine, and water they were boiled in. Serve in gravy boat.

One ten-pound turkey, two loaves of stale white bread, twelve chestnuts, six apples, one-half pound butter, one-half ounce parsley, salt and pepper, little and heart of turkey, two medium sized onions.

Soak the stale bread in water until all is nice and soft. Squeeze out the water and put bread in dish; peel and core your apples and put these together with the parsley, onions and chestnuts, through a meat grinder, then put with bread. Grind up the stomach, heart and liver of the turkey and just heat this in the melted butter, do not fry. A little salt, a little pepper, and a pinch of poultry dressing, all mixed up well and you have a dressing to fit a queen's taste. I stuff body and crop of turkey and sew up the up legs and wings so they lay closely to the body and put in covered roasting pan, bottom slightly covered with water, and roast until tender which will take for a ten-pound turkey about two hours, turning the bird once in a while to give a nice even brown on all sides. One-quarter pint of cream, little turkey dressing, pinch of sugar added to the sauce in pan, little cornstarch or flour if thickening is required, then put through strainer; boil up once or twice and it will make an excellent gravy.

The Turkey Editor wishes to thank American readers for their response. The recipes were every one of them good, making the task of selection very difficult. The contest has demonstrated that New England, home of the first Thanksgiving turkey dinner, still is the place where turkey recipes are to be had—excellent and varied.

Mrs. Celia Beaudoin of No. 15 Antwerp street, Brighton, who won the American turkey recipe prize, has proven herself one of the model housewives of Greater Boston. She expressed her pleasure at receiving the decision in the American contest. Within a week she has won a prize from a well-known baking company for the best loaf of bread, she said.

"I am very glad," she said, "that the judges in the American contest considered by recipe the best, for I am proud of it, and it is a pleasure to see my pride vindicated.

"I have used the recipe for a number of years, and it has been eminently successful. I have passed it on to other women, who have invariably expressed their satisfaction with it. Common sense and proper care are the only requisites for good cooking."

CONSERVATORY TRUSTEES ELECT NEW MEMBERS

E. Sohier Welch, Edwin Farnham Greene and Henry B. Endicott have been elected to the board of trustees of the New England Conservatory of Music, two of them filling vacancies caused by the deaths of Arthur F. Estabrook and Henry L. Higginson. The board otherwise will be composed in 1920 as in the present year, the following trustees having been re-elected with terms to expire in 1923: Joseph Baich, Alanson Bigelow, William P. Blake, Walter Channing, M. D., George R. Cortelyou, Charles C. Walker and the Rev. W. F. Warren.

Frederick S. Converse has been elected a vice-president, succeeding Mr. Estabrook, and Walter H. Langshaw, of New Bedford, has become a member of the executive committee, the re-elected members of which are: President, Samuel Carr; vice-presidents, George R. Cortelyou and George W. Brown; director, George W. Chadwick; treasurer, Owen Clark; general manager, Ralph L. Flanders; Joseph Baich, Edward S. Dodge and Louis K. Liggett. A resolution has been prepared by Mr. Chadwick and voted by the board memorializing the services and interest in the school of Major Higginson, for many years a trustee.

U. S. BLANKETS TO GO ON SALE AT THE NAVY YARD

Mayor Peters received a telegram today from Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, stating he had authorized the sale in Boston of many thousands of navy blankets. These blankets will be offered at $8.25 each, are blue-gray and light pear-gray in color, eighty-four inches long and sixty-four to sixty-seven inches in width. The sale will be in charge of Lieutenant-Commander Bowne, at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

on the subject of shortbread, so popular with Scotch and English folk.

"But, good as was the old-fashioned kind," remarked our hostess, "it was so extremely rich that the heavy taste lingered long after eating.

"Well," said Betsy, "there's nothing like that about the shortbread we have at our house—Lorna Doone Biscuit I squares that come already baked and ready to serve, any time.

"I was talking to mother about them only the other day, and she says that Lorna Doone has all the appetizing flavor of the old-fashioned kind, with enough richness and goodness, but not too much of her time that it was necessary for a small family to really know the comfort, efficiency and economy of buying these uniformly good, ready-to-serve products."

"Isn't that what Mother was saying to me last week," remarked Betsy. "She told me that it was so long ago when the kitchen was the scene of much of her time that she has a chance to really appreciate the difference between the old-fashioned shortbread and Lorna Doone Biscuit. Don't make it yourself, but get it with the full assurance that you can buy nothing better. Dad says they are delicious, but do not "taste-ify." GERMANY WILL BE ADMITTED TO LEAGUE

To Come in, if She Desires, After Ratification of Peace Agreement

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 26.—If Germany so desires she will be voted a member of the League of Nations at the first meeting of the delegates, which is expected to be convened within twelve weeks after the ratification of the treaty, according to views expressed in British official circles today. It is pointed out that all Germany has to do to merit admittance is to continue to fulfill the treaty conditions and show her sincerity in so doing.

The first meeting of the League of Nations must not be confused with the initial preliminary organization meeting, which is to be held in Paris next month. The preliminary meeting cannot pass upon Germany's admission. The covenant expressly provides that two months must elapse after the ratification of the treaty before any nation applying for membership can be admitted. That is to give time for careful study of the applicant's credentials.

To keep Germany out of the League would require an adverse vote from sixteen nations, but this is believed to be extremely unlikely under present conditions.

France is the chief power that desires to keep Germany on probation for a longer period, but it is probable that France could be over-ruled if she persisted in this attitude.

If the American Senate accepts a modified covenant, the first meeting of the delegates will be held at Washington. The big vote in favor of admitting the German delegates to the International Labor Congress at Washington is accepted in some quarters as an index of what the League probably would do.

HOCKING MADE ALFORD PROFESSOR AT HARVARD

William E. Hocking has been made Alford professor of natural religion, moral philosophy, and civil polity at Harvard, succeeding to the chair held by so many Harvard philosophers. The professorship has been vacant since the death of Professor Josiah Royce in September, 1916. Professor Hocking came to Cambridge from Yale five years ago. Previous to that he taught at the Andover Theological Seminary and the University of California. He is a Harvard graduate, class of 1901.

Previous occupants of the Alford professorship, exclusive of Professor Royce were: Levi Frisbie, Levi Hodge, James Walker, Francis Bowen and George H. Palmer. It was endowed 150 years ago by Edmund Trowbridge and Richard Tracy, Harvard graduates, executors of the will of John Alford who died in 1761.

LOWELL MAN CONVICTED OF PROMOTING ANARCHY

Konstanti Dobrowolski, aged twenty-six, of Lowell, was found guilty on a charge of promoting anarchy, in the East Cambridge Court, and sentenced to nine months in the House of Correction by Judge O'Connell. His brother, Felix Dobrowolski, who was indicted on the same charge, pleaded nolo. His case was placed on file.

The brothers were arrested in Lowell Oct. 31 by the police of that city for displaying in the window of a restaurant they conducted a picture cut from a radical newspaper, The Voice of Labor. The picture represented the badly mutilated head of a woman, under which was the caption, "A Steel Trust Victim."

LEGION FIREWORKS SHOW IN DORCHESTER TONIGHT

Arrangements have been completed for a great display of fireworks, which the Charles F. Hammond, Jr., Post, No. 78, American Legion, Dorchester, will present tonight at Franklin Field. A general invitation has been extended to the public to attend. The display, which will begin at 7 o'clock, will be followed by open house at the post headquarters, which is located near the field. The executive committee of the post is also working on plans for the post's ball, to be held at Mechanics Building on December 2.

Bill Carlisle, Bandit, 'Jollies' Police in Michigan

By International News Service.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Nov. 26.—The elusive train robber, Bill Carlisle, has arrived here, according to a letter mailed special delivery to the police department last night. The letter follows:

"Just dropped in to pay my respects to the Bath City. It's some town. That's a great bridge and the new road will reap you big benefits. Regards to the police and sheriff.—Yours, Bill Carlisle."

ROBBERS BURN WAY INTO BANK VAULT; GET $10,000

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 26.—Robbers who burned the vault door with an acetylene torch looted fifty safety deposit boxes of $10,000 in cash and bonds at the State Bank of Freelandville, Knox County.

No clue to the robbers has been found.

B. & M. SUES WOBURN GAS COMPANY FOR COAL

THANKS HEARST AND SENATORS ON TREATY

Friends of Irish Freedom Express Gratitude for Defeat of League Covenant

Friends of Irish Freedom, at a meeting last evening in Deacon Hall, adopted a resolution of gratitude to the Senators who defeated the League of Nations, and to William Randolph Hearst, the Boston American and other Hearst publications for their firm stand in opposition to the foreign entanglements threatened in the treaty and League.

The resolution follows:

"We, the Friends of Irish Freedom, at this time of thanksgiving, unite with the American people everywhere in profound thankfulness to God for the defeat of the League of Nations in the Senate, which, if accepted, would consummate the sale of our birthright as American citizens for a British mess of pottage, and the betrayal of those sacred interests of free government committed to our keeping for all humanity."

"We return our most grateful thanks to Senator Lodge, whose leadership and statesmanship were decisive in the fight against the league. And to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Senators Borah, Johnson, Gore, La Follette, Reed and the other senators who loyally stood with Lodge, as a wall of granite against the wiles of foreign and domestic finance, and of foreign diplomacy and intrigue."

"And be it resolved that we express our most sincere appreciation to William Randolph Hearst, the Boston American and other Hearst publications for the firm stand taken against the foreign entanglements as expressed in the present form of the League of Nations, and for their important contributions to this historic victory for America and things American."

AGREE ON INTERNATIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

New York, Nov. 26.—The formation of an international chamber of commerce has been agreed upon by delegates to the international trade conference, which has been in convention here since last Thursday.

The purposes of the new organization as set forth by the temporary organization committee are "to promote international commerce, obtain harmony of nations in all international questions involving commerce and industry, and to promote peace and cordial relations between the countries by the co-operation of business men of their associations."

JAILED FOR SELLING ALCOHOLIC MEDICINE

Canandaigua, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Because he sold medicine which is said to have contained about 18 per cent. of alcohol, Antonio Rotundo was sentenced by Judge Fitch to pay a fine of $500 and serve three months in jail.

Rotundo, a storekeeper, sold a liquid labeled Horkie Vino which has come into popularity because of its alcoholic content, since the war-time dry ban went into effect. Rotundo said he sold the liquid as medicine.

CATHOLIC CLERGY WARS ON MEXICAN BOLSHEVIKI

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 26.—A campaign against Bolshevism and Socialism is being waged through the Catholic churches of Mexico, according to word received here. Special sermons and lectures were given in all Catholic churches and cathedrals last Sunday on the evils of socialism and bolshevism. According to reports here, the lectures were given at the advice of high church dignitaries.

FRAMINGHAM BANK PRESIDENT DEAD

Framingham, Nov. 26.—James J. Valentine, aged 73, for more than thirty-five years president of the Framingham National Bank, is dead at his home on Pleasant street.

He is survived by two sons; James C. Valentine, in the employ of the Boston customs service, and Frederick Valentine, of New York, an official of the Bell Telephone Company.

GROW TIRE GAINS FAVOR WITH AUTO TRADE

Product Submitted to Severe Tests and Result Proves Their Stability

The George Grow Tire Company whose factory is at Canton Junction, has grown in rapid strides since the tire was first put on the market.

The company spent two and a half years in experimental work, subjecting the product to various chemical and road tests, until the company was satisfied that the tire would stand up.

"Every tire we tested had to stand up for 5,000 miles on our road test," said George Grow, "and when we got through with our chemical tests and our hard road work we were satisfied that we were able to give the public a tire that would produce mileage. We absolutely know what our tires will do and that is the reason we can guarantee them as we do, both the fabric and the cord.

"I have been asked why I went into the tire manufacturing business and my answer is that my automobile experience showed me the immense market for tires and I felt that our company might just as well produce its own tire as to push the other well-known makes. I feel that my judgment was right and the ever-increasing volume of business is a positive proof that the public thinks well of our product."

CONCORD BOY, KILLED BY TRUCK, IS BURIED

Concord, Nov. 26.—The funeral of John O'Connor, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor of No. 33 Bedford court, who died in the Deaconess Hospital as the result of an automobile accident, was held today. The boy was struck by an automobile truck owned by Laffin's express of Bedford while he was on his way home, breaking his leg. It was found necessary to amputate his leg at the hospital, where he was taken, and he died shortly after the amputation.

MRS. F. W. VANDERBILT TO DINE 400 NEWSBOYS

Newport, R. I., Nov. 26.—Four hundred hungrey news and messenger boys of Newport will assemble at Masonic Hall Thanksgiving afternoon at 2 o'clock for the annual dinner given by Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt. Lieutenant Peters of the Training Station will conduct the singing. Hodgson's orchestra will play. Bandmaster Charles Hall from the training station will be master of ceremonies. Rev. Frederick W. Coleman will pronounce the benediction.

SALOON MAN ACCUSED OF SELLING WHISKEY

Charged with violation of the prohibition law, James D. Ryan, proprietor of a saloon on Causeway street, was held in $500 bail by U. S. Commissioner Hayes on the charge of selling one quart of whiskey to Harry C. Mason on November 7.

Ryan pleaded not guilty to the charge. The case against him being continued to December 10 for a hearing. He was allowed to go on his personal recognizance.

FOOD ONLY ON DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION IN RUSSIA

Washington, Nov. 26.—The food scarcity in Petrograd is now so great that food is distributed only upon a physician's prescription, according to unofficial advices to the State Department. The reports declare that the city faces a catastrophe because of a food and fuel shortage, and there is but an 18 days' supply of fuel.

DEER ISLAND'S "OSTRICH MAN" DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Charles W. Russell, Deer Island's most famous prisoner, who swallowed dog chains, bolts, nuts, razor blades, glass, wire and other things without particular discomfort, has succumbed to pneumonia, and he now lies in Potters Field.

His Canadian relatives notified the city that they did not want the body.

ASK MR. FIXIT

Dear Mr. Fixit—I have a 1919 Vim ½-ton truck and have driven it about 2,500 miles. The key in the left wheel has been broken for the third time. The third time the key broke the hub was worn out where the key fits. I have just had a new hub and key put in. Give me the cause of this and how I can remedy it. H. G. Boston.

The cause of shearing your key off is either due to overloading your truck or a harsh clutch, which, when engaged, causes a strain on the axle. The clutch will come on with a jerk and slot. When these get worn far enough for actual play then the next strain shears the key off. If you are putting over 1,250 pounds on your truck you are overloading. If your clutch "bites" too quickly put in some neat's foot oil. If you have further trouble take your truck to the Boston agent.

Dear Mr. Fixit—Kindly tell me why my 1915 Reo roadster starts so hard. It starts by the magneto. It cranks easily but does not seem to start. I tested the spark and it sparks well. I've cleaned the points on the magneto. Could it be that the carburetor is not feeding enough gas, etc.? It starts as hard when hot as when cold. Also please tell me how to adjust this carburetor. The screw is on the bottom. Does it turn to the right or left? It seems to fill all four cylinders but has little compression.

I am running my headlights and tail lights on dry cells. Is it all right to connect these batteries with my magneto for starting? Would it hurt the magneto? Please tell me how to connect it. JOHN C., South Reno.

Your trouble probably comes from worn valve stems on the inlet valves. This allows cold air to be sucked into the cylinders. Go to your local Reo dealer and get some oversize valves, which will have a tight fit for the stems in the valve stem guides. Grind these valves in and that will help your compression while the new piston rings are badly worn. Your carburetor turns to the right, or clockwise, to shut off.

You have probably been running on the mixture you used during the warm weather and you will find that this will have to be changed. Try giving a little more gas, that is, turning the adjusting screw to the left a little and see if the motor picks up.

You can connect your dry cells to the magneto and if you follow out the wiring you may find that there is a wire leading from the switch to the mark "battery" which has no connection and this is for the batteries. Otherwise you can connect the battery to the switch on the binding post marked "battery."

Dear Mr. Fixit—Will you please tell me how to distinguish the various knocks found in my motor such as carbon, wrist pin, connecting rod, late spark and carburetor adjustment?

Your query involves a lot of technical knowledge that the average layman does not possess. In other words you have asked a very hard question. It is practically impossible to tell you how these sounds appear so that they will be recognized.

A knock from carbon is usually determined from the fact that it disappears or is lessened by retarding the spark. It usually shows up on a grade or when the engine is pulling at slow speed. Wrist pins when worn have a rather metallic sound, similar to a certain degree to a connecting rod knock. The knock from each of these usually increases when the spark is advanced and the motor speeded up. It is almost impossible to distinguish one from the other when driving.

A carburetor knock will show at certain openings of the throttle and usually disappears at other speeds.

A late spark is indicated when the motor refuses to pick up on the advance of the throttle and the motor shows a tendency to heat up at high speed.

Dear Sir—I have a 1916 Maxwell touring car that runs good up to 20 miles an hour. When I exceed this the engine races very hard and shakes the whole frame. There is a dash adjustment for gas on this car but it does not seem to alter the trouble. We clean carbon and grind valves very often but it does not seem to do any good.

C. M., Malden.

Your clutch may slip a little, which allows the engine to race. If the motor speeds up but the car speed does not correspond, this is your trouble. The bolts on the cross member of the frame which hold the engine in place may be loose. Look these over. Look over all parts, as fenders, headlights, etc., to see if any are loose, so that they vibrate at high speed. Your gas adjustment on the dash may be worn so that it does not act directly on the carburetor. Make an adjustment by hand under the hood and be sure you have a proper mixture.

If clutch slips use some neat's foot oil on it and work it in carefully by allowing the clutch to just touch with the gears in first speed.

Dear Mr. Fixit—I have a 1918 Dodge which I bought this Summer and it is in good condition. I took the cylinder head off to grind the valves and found three scores in the walls of the rear cylinder. I seem to use a lot of oil and smoke comes out of the breather pipe when engine is running idle. When the car is standing and the engine running slowly there is a knock. The knock is there when the spark is advanced. I notice it more with the spark retarded. I took up on the bearings a little and everything else seemed to be all right. If I run over 25 miles per hour there seems to be a heavy rumbling. What is the trouble? What effect would these scores have on the engine? How could I have this fixed at the least expense? Could these scores be brazed? They are less than 1/32 deep. Does oil come up through these scores? I clean the spark plugs almost every time I use the car. They seem to be oily.

O. M., Bath, Me.

Your knock and rumbling may come from a loose starter cbain. Tighten up on the eccentric on the end of the shaft.

Your rings may be worn, which will help cause oil to be pushed up. If only three cylinders show the effect of the plugs you can safely say it is due to the scores in the cylinder. The proper way, of course, would be to lap in a new piston, as the scores do not seem deep enough to warrant reboring. If you do not want to do this you might try oversize rings. The only effect of these scores on the engine would be oil coming up through, with a loss of compression also.

Mr. Fixit will answer questions about car troubles in this column each Wednesday. All inquiries must be signed to insure good faith. No names will be used in answers. Do not send stamps for reply.

FINE FALL RIVER STORE FOR SELLING OLD EGGS

Fall River, Nov. 26.—The Steigerman Cox Company, Incorporated, was fined $50 by Judge Hanify in Second District Court on a charge of violating the food law. The store, which is one of the city's largest department stores, was found guilty of having sold eggs which were marked as fresh, when they were not. The store put up the claim that Armour & Co. had sold them the eggs with a strictly fresh guarantee. Armour's local manager admitted the eggs might be six weeks old. The company entered an appeal. Nine grocers were fined $10 each for selling cold storage eggs not properly marked.

FINE 14 FOR WALKING ON B. & M. TRACKS

Clinton, Nov. 26.—A campaign to stop trespassing upon its right of way, started by the Boston & Maine railroad, came up in the district court before Judge Jonathan Smith, when fourteen employes in local factories, twelve men and two women, appeared. The cases were prosecuted by Clarence J. Shirley, a special agent of the railroad. All were found guilty and in each instance a fine of $5 was paid.

R. I. GIRL FIGHTS OFF MAN BENT ON ROBBERY

Providence, R. I., Nov. 26.—Miss Beasie Emmett of Wakefield successfully fought off a man who attacked her in her home while she was alone. A bitter struggle ensued between her assailant, believed to have been bent on robbery, before she escaped from his grasp and attracted the attention of three passing men by her cries. Several private detectives are assisting the police in a search for the man.

RECORD DISPLAY AT COMING AUTO SHOW

87 Passenger, 70 Truck Exhibitors Obtain Space for N. Y. and Chicago Events

That the New York and Chicago automobile shows will constitute a more complete exposition of the automotive industry than ever before in the successful history of these shows is apparent from a statement issued by S. A. Miles, manager of the National Automobile Shows, that there will be on display eighty-seven different makes of passenger cars, seventy of motor trucks and 284 accessories.

Of the passenger car exhibitors eighty-four have entered both the New York and the Chicago shows, two will appear in Chicago only and one in New York only.

At the New York Motor Truck Show no less than 63 different makes of trucks will be displayed while to date 40 makes have secured space for the Chicago truck show.

The New York passenger car and truck shows will be held during the week of January 3-10, while the Chicago show will be held January 24-31. In New York passenger cars will be exhibited on four floors of Grand Central Palace, while the truck exhibit will be held in the Eighth Coast Artillery Armory, the largest in the United States.

The Chicago Passenger Car Show will be held in the Coliseum and Armory, while trucks will be displayed in the International Amphitheatre.

President Hastings Will Continue As Hupp Manager

At the November meeting of the board of directors of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, Charles D. Hastings, formerly vice-president and general manager of the corporation, was elected to succeed J. Walter Drake, resigned. Mr. Hastings will continue as general manager and Mr. Drake will maintain his active connection with the business as chairman of the board of directors.

The action of the board was taken at the suggestion of Mr. Drake, who, in making the proposal, said that in his opinion the highest office in the organization was the just due of the man who, as vice-president and general manager for so many years, had been mainly responsible for the corporation's substantial growth and present commanding position.

STORM HALTS SEARCH FOR 16 MISSING SAILORS

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 26.—With a terrific northeaster, accompanied by a blinding snowstorm, raging over Lake Superior, search for the sixteen members of the crew of the steamer Myron, which sank near Whitefish Point Saturday, was given up today, the searchers unable to continue in the gale and convinced that the members of the ill-fated crew have been drowned. Three lake vessels are reported grounded at Ile Royale Island Shoal, Whitefish Point and Cedar Point reef, and it is expected that shipping losses will be heavy.

COOLIDGE COMMITTEE'S EXPENSE BILL IS $3,825

The Coolidge campaign committee, an organization of the Governor's friends outside the Republican State committee to promote his candidacy for re-election, has filed a return with the Secretary of State showing expenditures of $3,825.

The largest contributor to this committee's funds was W. F. Whiting, who gave $500. Frank W. Stearns and A. C. Ratshesky contributed $300 each.

A. E. VAN CAMPEN JOINS GARFORD TRUCK CO.

E. A. Van Campen has joined the Garford Motor Truck Company as assistant sales manager.

Mr. Van Campen was with George Chapman, the local branch manager, when Mr. Chapman was with the Federal Truck Company in New York and later with him in Cambridge when he had the New England distribution of the Federal.

HENSHAW MOTOR CO. READY FOR NEW HOME

Dodge Dealers Will Observe Fifth Anniversary at New Commonwealth Ave. Quarters

For some days the Boston public has been mystified by advertisements in the newspapers in which the intent appears to be to give the impression that something notable is to happen on November 28 and 29.

These are the dates chosen for the opening to the public of the new home of the Henshaw Motor Company, Dodge Brothers car dealer, at No. 989 to 997 Commonwealth avenue, and also for the observance of this company's fifth anniversary. The conjunction of these two events will be made the occasion for an elaborate celebration, a feature of which will be a most comprehensive exhibition of all types of cars, both passenger and business, produced at the immense plant of Dodge Brothers in Detroit.

IN CENTRE OF AUTO DISTRICT.

The new building is in the district that is rapidly becoming the centre of the Boston motor vehicle trade. Since the Henshaw Company decided to build near Braves Field numerous other concerns have followed its example.

With a frontage of 100 feet on Commonwealth avenue and a depth of 175 feet, the new building has nearly an acre of floor space. On the main floor there is a span of forty feet between columns, believed to be the longest in any motor vehicle building in Boston. An attending show and salesrooms that are unexcelled for the display of cars.

For the opening and anniversary the company has assembled a notable collection of cars and commercial vehicles. For the new car sales department, Mr. Henshaw has secured from the factory a complete line of stock models including the popular four-door Sedan, an Imperial coupe, roadster, touring, limousine and convertible types. He has also had built by prominent coach builders several custom-made bodies, notably the town car type, with special finish and equipment.

USED CAR DISPLAY.

The transportation department, as the business car section of the establishment is known, will be opened in its new home with a complete line of commercial vehicles of various capacities from one-half to two and one-half tons all on the Dodge Brothers chassis, and with a variety of bodies, both stock and special.

In another section of the building a large space has been provided for the exchange car division and here there will be a remarkable collection of cars considering the demand that exists for Dodge Brothers vehicles. More than one hundred motor vehicles, all taken in as part payment for new Dodge Brothers cars during the Fall, will be on display during the two days of the opening.

It is the seventh time that the Boston Dodge Brothers dealer has been compelled by growth of business to move to larger quarters. It was just five years ago on Nov. 28 that the first Dodge Brothers car to reach New England was displayed in the Henshaw Company's small salesroom on Boylston street. It happens that that very car is still in active service about the city. Since its arrival, however, Dodge Brothers have built 400,000 motor cars and a goodly share of them has come into New England

George Bascom, one of New England's largest accessory dealers, certainly saw the "handwriting on the wall" this season when he contracted for the distribution of Portage Tires. Mr. Bascomb made what is probably the largest contract the Portage company had ever signed for New England and at that he has run way ahead of his contract.

Mr. Bascom's experience has taught him that New England is one of the best markets in the country for tires, and with an unusually good touring season, his judgment has been vindicated by an enormous increase in business and he has proven himself an important factor in the wholesale distribution of Portage Tires for this territory.

BATTLE OF CELTS WHEN B. C. MEETS GEORGETOWN

(Nathaniel Lee, 1655-1692)

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

We don't know whether the foregoing quotation of Nate's won a prize in the proverb contest of his home town weekly. But we do know he'd scarcely set it down on parchment before the world at large began employing it as a ten word picture of the toughest, most tenacious scrap that was possible to arrange.

That was over a couple of hun dred years ago. Yet Nate's stuff still is doing business. It probably would continue to do so for another couple of hundred years but for the the fact we're about to recommend it to be modernized to the extent of replacing the word "Greeks," by the word "Celt."

When Greek met Greek in the old days a whale of a battle could be counted on. Nowadays, it's when Celt meets Celt that there is assurance of all that could be asked for in the nature of a bang-up, never-say-die tussle.

All of which brings us to the announcement that the Emerald Isle offspring now attending Boston College and the Erin-aired youths of Georgetown University are to meet on Saturday in a gridiron battle right here in Boston, and, if you pass up witnessing this up-to-date interpretation of Nate Lee's ancient saying, you'll probably regret it ever after.

There may be better teams in the country than the teams of Boston College and Georgetown, but it would require considerable figuring to bring any other two teams together that would promise a more thrill promising game than the one which B. C. and Georgetown are shortly to stage. And as the lineup of each finds Boston and New England names well represented, the approaching fray possesses a thoroughly local appeal.

N. E. BOYS ON TEAM.

Dispatches from Washington relative to the makeup of the Georgetown team indicate that no less than twelve Greater Boston and New England boys may be seen in action before the end of the approaching contest. The backfield that starts the game will have Maloney of English High at quarter; Malley of Boston Latin, and McQuade of Manchester (N. H.) High, at the halves, and Buckley of the latter high school at fullback. In the course of the game, Sullivan of Dorchester High may work at quarterback, Conroy of Medford High at halfback and Flavin of Portland (Me.) High at fullback. While in the line, Anderson of Somerville will start at centre; Sullivan of Holyoke High at left tackle, and Kenyon of Manchester (N. H.) High at right end, with several other former local high school and preparatory school stars ready to fill their places when needed.

The representative records of the Boston and Georgetown elevens would tend to make the Washington school the favorite in the wagering, for while the Georgetown team has met defeat it has proved the more consistent football and in its two most recent contests has scored victories over such powerful opponents as the U. S. Naval Academy and Washington and Lee University. But whereas Georgetown has been engaging reasonably sturdy opponents each week-end, Boston College has enjoyed two interruptions in its schedule, the last one coming last Saturday, with the result the local team should enter the contest unwearied from the efforts of its two recent struggles. But neither records, nor recent experiences are likely to figure in such a game as the approaching one, and it seems more than likely that the wagering will be at even terms.

CHANGED ALLEGIANCES.

Passing along of late developments we shall start in our list of changes with Paul Dugan, centre, formerly playing with Georgetown, who, it is said, will be matriculated at Boston College. Happy will do when confronted by representatives of his one-time alma mater should he, plenty, provided he exhibits the type of play he showed in its games against Harvard, Yale and Holy Cross. Whether Anderson will conduct himself similarly is almost a safe wager, after his early showings convincing to impress upon his former team the real extent of the loss they have sustained, remains a very rare—centre play is assured.

The coaches of both elevens have long been ranked among the most successful in the country. To date, however, teams they have coached have met but once. That was in 1916 when the Dartmouth eleven, coached by Cavanaugh, tasted a most unexpected and bitter defeat at the hands of Exedine's Georgetown array in a battle staged at Haverhill.

It can be safely ventured that Major Cavanaugh is determined to offset the edge Exendine has gained on him and that the Boston College team, in so far as its preparation for the approaching contest is concerned will be an alert one.

B. C. TO PUT EARLY.

Boston College should have an advantage in the kicking department, with Jimmy Fitzpatrick doing the punting and drop kicking and it is quite possible that throughout the early portion of the contest the local team will play a kicking game, aiming to cause its opponents to find themselves thereby rushing the ball themselves. Boston College to profit to any breaks that may occur.

It is, however, will not enjoy a repetition of the drop-kicking match on Saturday for in the lineup of the Georgetown eleven is Jack Maloney, whose two field goals in the Navy-Georgetown game gave Georgetown the victory and Maloney a place in football spotlight.

The Georgetown team will leave Washington Thursday night, arriving in Boston Friday noon with a full twenty-four hours in which to rest and limber themselves for the battle and "When Celt meets Celt," in Braves Field the football fur should fly.

American's Expert to Pick All-Star Elevens

CHARLES E. PARKER, the American's football expert, will select from the college football teams of the country, a first, a second and a third All-America eleven for next Monday's American.

Personal observation of many of the Eastern players, and a close study of expert accounts of the work of players in other parts of the country, augmented by the opinions of well qualified football authorities in each locality, enable Mr. Parker to place in mythical lineups the outstanding stars of each position, according to the relative merit of their play during the 1919 season.

ONE FALL SYSTEM TO SPEED UP MAT BOUT

Wrestling under modern conditions has never been slow, but with the adoption of the one fall system the game has been speeded to an exceptional degree. This applies to tomorrow night's big clash in Mechanics Building when Strangler (Ed) Lewis will try to prove that his headlock is better than Waldek Zbyszko's full Nelson. Naturally the men will not confine themselves to these particular holds, but these they will depend on them largely goes as it goes.

Both men are on edge for the battle and when they step through the ropes the fans only look upon as fine a pair of lightweight athletes as there is in competition today. The men will go to a positive finish, one fall to win, with a fine set of preliminaries beginning at 8:15.

Promoter Tansey has planned for the handling of a big crowd, as everything points to a record attendance.

CLAPP MEMORIAL FIVE TO PLAY IN COHASSET

The Clapp Memorial Association basket ball team of Weymouth will play their first game of the season with the Cohasset A. A. at Cohasset Friday evening. Many dates are yet open and teams wishing games should communicate with Physical Director Fahnan of the Clapp Memorial Association, Weymouth.

AL SHARPE'S INVICTUS

Out of the gloom that smothers me,
I have not passed an alibi;
Sharp though the barbed shafts of blame
Let others tell the reason why.

Beyond this season, loureless,
Looms but the memory of defeat
But through the stretches of the years
I still shall feel the battle's heat.

Wrong were the things I said and did,
My team could not get past the goal
Yet never did a gamer bunch
Strive for the glory of the Bowl

THE YALE SITUATION

Picking out new coaches for defeated football teams is just like electing new managers for second division ball clubs. It's a habit, and fills up certain flock of valuable white paper each Fall and Winter. Usually nothing much comes of it, but it would seem that the drive at Al Sharpe, unsuccessful director of Yale Gridiron destinies, will eventually mean a change skipper at New Haven in 1920.

Doctor Al had a flock of good material, as has been said at least two thousand times this week already. He was knocked back now and again by injuries, but so were all the other teams. He came to the big test with all of his first stringers on the job, and Yale was knocked for a goal, as they say.

Yale was not beaten because the players weren't game, giving all they had or well-conditioned. A sturdier or better physically prepared team would be hard to find. But Yale didn't have any materials to work with. The team had one pseudo trick play—a back through centre on a delayed pass—an article that every high school team in these parts packs.

That was all. The Yale forward pass—the real threat of modern football was a pitiable thing. The back took the ball, flung it in the air and hoped that somebody would catch it. The Blue defence for the backs catching punts was lamentable. Every time Kempton clubbered in the leather, at least three Harvard men were waiting to smear him. There were similar other things, as have been variously pointed out.

It may have been that Harvard had too much defensive stuff, but how somever, [illegible] a clinch that a lot of Yale alumni will be screeching for a new system with the dawn of another gridiron year.

How slim the margin between glory and disaster. Had Yale busted through the last foot in the third period, the honor that is Fisher's and Camp's would sure be perching on the corrugated brows of Dr. Al Sharpe and others at New Haven, if you don't mind mixing metaphors.

ANOTHER BIG GAME

Harvard and Yale have played, but the curtain hasn't fallen on the hectic season by a long shot. There are a couple of big games Saturday—the Army meets the Navy at New York, and Boston College tackles Georgetown at Braves Field.

Boston, accordingly, will be in at the finish, which is as it should be, and it promises to be some finish. There is the same sort of friendly hate between the athletes of the coming local fray, as exists between B. C. and Holy Cross. The mingle will decide the Catholic colleges championship of the East, and the calibre of the teams promises a lot of real football.

Georgetown has tackled a lot of tough competition, and sailed serenely over it, by no means the smallest accomplishment being a 6 to 0 defeat of the strong Middy outfit. There are as many Boston and New England athletes, almost, on the Washington eleven as there are on the University Heights outfit.

Each team has a great kicking department and excellent fundamental coaching. There aren't two more thorough students and professors of the sport than Cavanaugh of Boston and Exendine of Georgetown. Those who couldn't make the Stadium Saturday will here have a chance to watch a scrap that should be a lot more interesting that the Blue-Crimson affair.

THE DAY'S HAPPY THOUGHT

There once was a mogul named Ras
Whom the magnates endravored to con.
They rotted a loud shout
And they called: "Put him out!"
But it doesn't appear that they can.

NOT GIVING A SHORT ANSWER

New Haven—It may be that prohibition did ruin the Yale team. They certainly didn't have enough stuff Saturday.

Promoter—No, B. M. Ilapgood did not take the Syracuse eleven barnstorming.

Statistics—Our selection for All-America and is easy—January 16.

Baron English High and [illegible] school meet tomorrow in [illegible] game at Pennant Park. Two [illegible] teams have been playing the [illegible] game on Thanksgiving Day [illegible] the game has a cup been one [illegible] the school [illegible] all season.

Both teams will use their [illegible] strength on the field and the winner of the game tomorrow will be a team fully worthy of [illegible] the championship of the city.

The [illegible] Johnstone of Doherty to the [illegible] lineup will be [illegible] them. It has been in doubtful for the past few days if they would play, but now that they have overcome the [illegible] the English School are greatly boosted.

The game will start [illegible] o'clock [illegible] between [illegible] three-pound [illegible] Bunding a week from tomorrow [illegible] Lynn on the [illegible] with [illegible] ten-stroke [illegible] Loy Green.

SCRUBS WITH GEORGETOWN PLAYS BAFFLE B. C. TEAM

Boston College varsity was stopped completely at Braves Field by the scrub in the first scrimmage the men have had since the Holy Cross game. The overhead game Coach Frank Cavanaugh devised for the Georgetown game was a failure. On the other hand, the second team, drilled in the offence of the blue and gray, tore through the varsity for substantial gains.

Coach Cavanaugh is determined to work the first team hard and long for the next few days and will spare nothing to get the regulars into a fighting mood.

Phil Corrigan is getting back into condition. He has been suffering from a very severe cold and has been greatly handicapped. He was confined to bed over the week-end but feels much better. With a dry field on Saturday the versatile quarter back is expected to show great speed.

SOMERVILLE HIGH MAY PLAY SCOTT HIGH TEAM

At a meeting of the Somerville school committee it was decided that the Somerville High eleven be permitted to play the Scott High team at Toledo, O., December 6, providing it wins from Cambridge Latin on Thanksgiving Day. If Cambridge beats Newton, however, Somerville will be deprived of an opportunity to play Scott, for it will have to tackle and win from Medford in the re play of the "no contest" muddle to meet Cambridge Latin out for top suburban honors by a single point.

C. A. C. Has Only Local Show, But Clubs Will Stage Battles All Over New England

By JACK CONWAY

The big game will give the [illegible] Thanksgiving ushering [illegible] of Indianapolis and [illegible] Buddy Brooklyn boxer, will meet in the feature number of [illegible] Neither of these youth need any introduction to Boston fans. Hyde has been a frequent performer in local rings since he came East as a member of the navy during the war. Johnny Josephs, Abe Friedman and Al Shubert all failed to make any serious dent in the reputation of the Hub fighter.

Charley (Kid) Miller of the South End and Freddy Madden of East Boston will swap punches in the semi-final of eight rounds. Johnny Hepburn of Glasgow Scotland, and Tooft-ie O'Toole of South Boston will meet in a six-round event. Young Nye of South Boston and Harry Loring of Charlestown will go over the jumps in another six-round scrap.

Johnny Downes, fast stepping South Boston featherweight, will oppose Frankie Brown of New York in a twelve-round bout at the Crescent A. C. tomorrow afternoon. This match promises to furnish plenty of thrills. Downes has executed a sparkling comeback. He is boxing faster than at any time during his ring career, while he is punching hard as ever.

Brown will give the South Boston boy a severe test. The New Yorker has won-appear decisions to his credit over Johnny Kilbane, Joe Tipton and Joey Fox. He recently gave Harry Carlson a furious tussle at Marlboro.

Downes cannot afford to see to Brown as he is booked to meet Harry Carlson at the Armory A. A. next Tuesday night. Both will also be the sixes at the Lowell show which starts at 2:30 p. m.

The new club at Marlboro will hold a show tomorrow afternoon. Three ten-round bouts are on the card and they should furnish plenty of action. Billy Carney of New Bedford and George Niker, Cambridge welterweight, will meet in the feature number. Freddy Yells of Taunton and Irish Woods of Manchester, N. H., will mix in another ten-round affair. [illegible] should be filled with [illegible] Howard McRae of Cambridge and Tony Viera, New Bedford boxer, will meet in the other ten-round scrap. The card which should please Paddy Hehn will be ready and will have a busy day with so many willing millers billed to perform.

Charles Parker, South End lightweight and Tommy Ellis of Paterson, N. J., meet at the Lynn Club of Lynn tomorrow night. Parker made a big hit with Lynn fans a couple of months ago in his contest with Charley Bergin of New Haven. Ellis defeated Bergin, and it looks as though there is plenty of action in store for the Lynn fans.

Tiplitz and Britt Box Twelve-Round Draw at Armory Athletic Club

Joe Tiplitz of Philadelphia and Frankie (Young) Britt, New England lightweight champion, were unable to decide which is the better boxer of the two in their twelve-round contest at Mechanics Building under the auspices of the Armory A. A. When the fists had ended, Referee Larry Conley declared honors were even.

It was a good decision. Britt hopped into the lead in the early rounds of the frolic and it looked as though his straight punching to the face in the first few rounds was going to win the bout. Tiplitz, however, came on strong in the fifth and sixth frames, and in the seventh, while Tiplitz was far ahead in the eighth, while the [illegible] Britt leading again [illegible] ended in a tie. Tiplitz was the [illegible] and eleventh rounds, but Britt [illegible] strong in the twelfth and [illegible] round by the proverbial margin [illegible] child Brown of Philadelphia and Johnny Mooney of Newton put on a sensational battle in the [illegible] of ten rounds. Brown won [illegible] round when Jack Mahoney [illegible] ended the contest had gone [illegible] after Mooney suffered [illegible] back after being [illegible] through the ropes. Mooney [illegible] defeated, made a big [illegible] work against Brown, who [illegible] of the best looking ring pros [illegible] come to Boston in a long [illegible]

Jack Tillo of the North End won over Willie Green of the South End in eight rounds, while Al Lane of the South End kayoed Jimmy Burke of Andrew square in two frames.

MADE FIRST HOLE IN 2

Revell's Great Drive Landed Ball Within Two Feet of the Hole

By ROBERT C. HARLOW.

Do you remember the first golf shot you ever made?

If upon your first attempt you obtained more excellent results than Alexander H. Revell of the Pacific Coast you are entitled to tell it to the world.

Revell, in a signed statement, declares that upon his first attempt he got a two. It was no fluke two, either. He hit his drive to within two feet of the pin and sank the putt.

He is one of the most prominent golfers residing upon the Pacific coast. He has played the game in Europe and America since that first two, and is rated as an excellent shot, a careful student of the sport, and as an honest reporter.

It was in the nineties that Revell first tried his hand. He walked to the first tee at a Chicago golf club with Joseph De Moss, an expert, who later won the amateur championship of Wisconsin. De Moss led the way.

The first hole was 120 yards. De Moss pitched over a clump of trees to within four feet of the pin. Revell, holding a club in his hands for the first time, hit his ball cleanly in the direction which Mr. De Moss' ball had taken. The shot stopped two feet from the hole.

MADE HIM A GOLFER.

Revell says that it was this marked success which greeted his first endeavor which made him become a confirmed golfer. He says he decided he was a born player and should cultivate the habit of getting twos.

A story has been told of a beginner who got a one the first time he hit a ball and thereupon quit the game for the remainder of his life upon the declaration that it was too easy for him to be up seriously. This gentleman however, has never been identified, so Revell's two will have to stand as the official record for golfer's first holer.

Golfers are not usually as fortunate in the maiden efforts as Revell. First strokes generally result in a complete miss, a broken club or a ball that is headed for the [illegible] ing in most any direction. But it is the one who has the good of the occasional hole in par, when comes to [illegible] beginner, that lures him on to [illegible] efforts. Wars will also be the sixes at the Lowell show which starts at 2:30 p. m.

The new club at Marlboro will hold a show tomorrow afternoon. Three ten-round bouts are on the card and they should furnish plenty of action. Billy Carney of New Bedford and George Niker, Cambridge welterweight, will mix in the feature number. Freddy Yells of Taunton and Irish Woods of Manchester, N. This Day in History—November 26, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the death, in 1504, of Isabella of Spain, the patroness of Columbus, who encouraged the daring navigator when the court scientists pronounced his ideas visionary. It was Isabella who, by pledging her jewels, started him on his way to the discovery which opened a new world.

Great Starry Spectacle in East

AT 9 o'clock these mid-November nights, the Pleiades are seen glittering more than half way from the eastern sky to the meridian, while below their swarmy cluster glows the ruddy Antares in the head of the "Bull," and bounding up from the horizon appears the great Orion, with his starry belt, his sheeny shield, his club and sword.

THE Duke had put off his assumption of young-manishness. He was once more the rather tired, satiated steely-composed aristocrat, who had done everything, tried everything and was quietly on the look-out for a new sensation, a new experience, without very much hope of finding it.

"Poor Paris!" he said suddenly. "She is like a beautiful virtuous woman who has lived with noble courage through a series of checkered years and several drastic operations, and who, being none too well-off, is obliged to adopt the paint and the patchouli of a woman of easy virtue, so that she may attract the paying male guest to her boarding house. She is called gay, and knowing that the term is an asset to her business—her clientele is altogether composed of the night-seers of other nations, eager for the pornography in which they cannot openly indulge in their own—she kicks her heels about in a skimpy skirt, and stays up until the shadows grow deep about her eyes. And all the while she is honest, industrious and thrifty, and her children are hard-working, light-hearted people, who, realising her earning capacity, turn their heads away from her enforced antics. I feel more and more sorry for Paris."

Without saying "good-night," he went straight to his bedroom, ordering a cup of black coffee to be brought there.

Deeply relieved, Helena lingered only a few minutes in the sitting-room, listening and waiting. Effie, who found loneliness in strange surroundings very trying, welcomed her eagerly, and the two talked in undertones. It was a little pathetic—this way in which the two country girls looked to each other for the human note, the trifling, every-day chitchat of their thoughts and likes, so far away from their own unexciting and normal surroundings.

"When we leave Paris, where do we go, your Grace?" asked Effie, when having made the young Duchess ready for bed, she lingered, unwilling to return to her little room at the end of a long passage.

"I don't know, Effie."

"Don't you, Miss?" The word, which slipped out, was unnoticed by both. "More foreign cities?"

"I haven't any more idea than you have," said Helena.

"William said he thought his Grace meant to get back to Cardinals as soon as possible because of his doctor. Do you think we shall?"

"We may. I haven't heard."

"Fancy!" said Effie.

She opened it and read the first few pages. It didn't seem to her to matter very much. It was all about the way in which a man with round shoulders and the knees of his trousers bagged opened a linen-draper's shop in a side street in Surbiton. The conscious worship of the writer's description made her think of an entertainer in ill-fitting evening clothes whom she had seen at a country circus balancing a billiard ball on the end of a cue.

The Duke

The Duke was not undressed. He was smoking the inevitable cigarette in a long, thin holder. In his hand he carried a little black case that Helena seemed to remember having seen before.

He opened it and dangled the black pearl by its chain. "This was given to me by Prince Kumpathalia. It has never been worn, so he said, by a woman. At any rate, I have never seen it on one." He went over and dropped it into her lap. "You are so white," he added, "I have a fancy to see it on you."

Helena left it in the folds of her kimono. "I'm most awfully sorry," she said, with a broader touch of her latent outdoor manner than usual, "but I don't like the thing."

"I suppose you don't know what that's worth?" asked Harwich, not very much amused.

"No. I haven't any idea about the value of these things. Why? Is it something very fabulous?"

"No, not fabulous." He threw the end of his cigarette into an ash tray. "If your father had had it his price would have settled his recent little trouble quite easily and left him enough over to buy something for himself."

He had meant to be cruel. He saw the blood flame in her face with satisfaction. He disliked the steady maintenance of the vicarage atmosphere in his temporary house. It led to argument.

"It is yours," he said, "with my love."

No Humbleness

There was no humbleness in her short "Thank you."

"You will put it on, won't you?" he said.

"Oh, but no! Worn like that it might as well be a big early Victorian brooch."

"How am I to wear it?" asked Helena, trying to speak evenly.

"Next to the flesh." He pointed to the box. "You see it always lies against white satin."

Harwich sat limp for a moment. He looked at her through narrowed eyes. His mouth went into a straight line. Anyone who knew him well would have been amazed at his unusual self-control. He had flung glasses, books, and even bronzes upon less provocation.

"I am so sure that you don't intend to annoy or irritate me, Helena," he said, "that it is absurd to make the suggestion."

Helena turned upon him. She felt that she was being brought to bay by this man. "Will you please tell me exactly what you mean?" she cried.

"Yes," he replied. "I think I had better, as you don't care to understand. I want you to take those things off, then to hang the chain round your neck."

Barber Gives Recipe for Gray Hair

Mr. A. E. O'Brien, who has been a barber in New York City for many years, made the following statement: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy. This you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extra to buy. Dissolve it in 4 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box. One box will last you for months.

"It is safe, does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

Roslindale Woman Recommends This Prescription

Mrs. Albert J. Patch, of Roslindale, Mass., writes: "Before taking your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) I was troubled with what I thought stomach trouble. I had that terrible knawing in my stomach nearly all the time. Within half an hour after eating a hearty meal I would have that same disagreeable feeling. I was losing in weight every day. After taking your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) a few weeks all of that terrible knawing in my stomach expelled worms, and I felt like a new person in many ways, and would heartily recommend it to anyone suffering as I did."

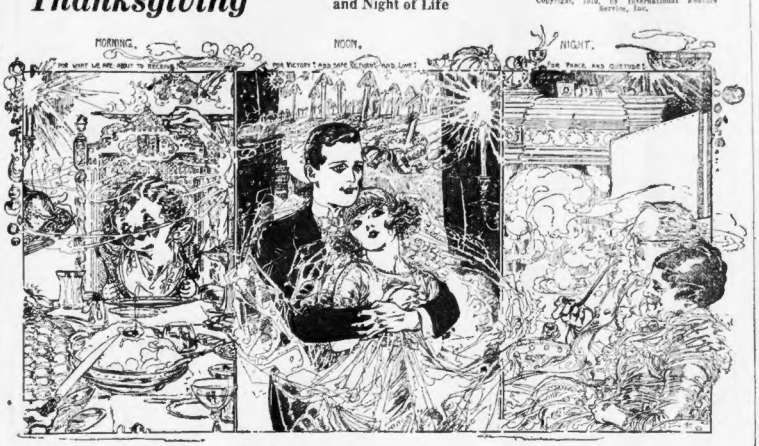
Headaches, tired feeling, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness, constipation can be relieved, if you take the prescription known as True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. It has done much for sick people, men, women and children, ever since 1848—it has a power reputation. AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

Thanksgiving

In the Morning, Noon and Night of Life

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1919, by International Feature Service, Inc.



TOMORROW'S THANKSGIVING—the day we eat and are happy and do not have to work, and remember many things to be glad about.

"Morning" only is thankful for "turkey," "cranbeddies" and "draby," as the delectable fragrance of 'em eases under a small body's nose.

"Noon" remembers "Flanders fields" and "the crosses row on row," and is glad one soldier boy does not lie out there, but is safe home again. Noon is grateful for VICTORY, a safe return and LOVE.

And "Night"—Night is softly thankful for calm hearts where emotions lie quiet at last; for Plenty, Peace and QUIETUDE.

The Love Gambler

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

"I NEEDED money at once. My health would not stand indoor work. The doctors forbade it. I had driven an ambulance in France. I saw an advertisement for a chauffeur. I answered it."

"It was my father's advertisement?"

"Yes."

"You had no family here?"

"No. But I knew of some people in New York who knew my people. I did not like them to suspect that my father's son was taking the position of a chauffeur. It was a foolish pride, I know. I see my mistake now. But when Mr. Leighton asked me my name I gave him my middle name—Smith."

"Surely there was no real harm in that," she said. "And then?"

"I did as well as I knew how—until a few days ago when I received a summons from our family lawyer telling me of the death of my only surviving relative—out West. He was very wealthy. I am his heir."

"You must be glad," she murmured. "It must be very hard to renounce one's true name. Yet, unless yours is an unusual one, nobody might have recognized you here in New York."

"It is an unusual name," he said suddenly, rising and taking a step toward her. "Miss Leighton—can you forgive me?—my name is David Smith Delaine."

The words were spoken. To David they seemed to echo through the room.

For a moment the girl in front of him did not move, but sat, her eye fixed on him, every drop of color ebbing from her face.

"You mean," she whispered at last, "that you are the David Delaine who was Miss Jeanne's nephew?"

"Yes," he said, huskily. "I am."

"You knew," she said so softly that he had to bend to hear the words, "who you were when you came here? I mean—did you know that I knew Miss Jeanne De Laine?"

"I was not sure if you were the Miss Leighton of whom I had heard her speak. After I had been here for a little while I was convinced that you were."

"What convinced you?"

"I saw your initials on your bag—but what made me certain was that pendant," with a motion towards the trinket on her throat.

"Yes, years ago," he replied, "when I was only a young boy. I always thought it was very beautiful."

She did not speak, but held the amethyst pendant in her hand, as if the touch of it calmed her.

"I have told you the truth, Miss Leighton," David said. "Can you forgive me?"

"For what?"

"For the deception I practised. Oh, don't you suppose I know how the whole adventure must look to you? I, suspecting who you were and that you were a friend of my aunt's, came here, even after the insult that she had put upon you in her will."

Desiree started violently. "I did not suppose you knew!" she muttered.

"But I could never comply with the terms of the instrument," he began, floundering hopelessly.

She looked directly at him. In the depth of her dark eyes he saw something like pity and a comprehension that made his head swim.

"Don't try to explain to me," she pleaded, and her tone was very low. "I understand entirely."

"You understand?" he repeated incredulously. "You understand that it was only the need of work and—I may as well be frank—the desire for adventure that made me come to your father on that day"—

She interrupted him. "Please," she begged, "don't make any more explanations. They are quite unnecessary."

"Miss Leighton," he implored, all sense of caution swept from him, "I have another confession to make. From the first time I ever saw you I knew there was never anybody else like you—that you were the only—"

Again she checked him. "Don't bother to tell me," she murmured, in a smile playing about her lips. "I know that, too."

"You know that I love you?" he burst forth, seizing her hand. "Oh, my dear—you know that all along? I tried to hide it. Why did you—how could you——"

"Because," and she laughed softly while a beautiful color flooded her face—"the eyes of love are not blind, but preternaturally keen. That was why I understood you and trusted you—David."

Walter Jefferson was a member of the same club to which Samuel Leighton belonged.

"I want just a word with you," Jefferson said hastily, laying his hand on Leighton's arm after the Canadian dinner. "From your manner when we parted the other day I knew that you thought me very officious. Since then I have proved that my suspicions, expressed then, were well founded."

"Eh?" the gruff monosyllable was not encouraging. But Jefferson was not daunted.

"Yes. I met my cousin, Daisy Dakin, today—in fact, I called on her. She is stopping at the Waldorf—she and her husband. I reminded her of the chap I met at her house some time ago—described his looks and all that—and told her his last name began with a D."

"How did you know that?"

"From the initials on his cuff-links," Jefferson replied. Then, seeing the sneer creeping about the listener's lips, hastened to check it by the startling statement—

"Smith, you ex-chauffeur, happens to be David Delaine of Baltimore. My cousin is sure of it."

A Daily Recipe

By MONSIEUR CHARLES A. PERRAUDIN, Delmonico's Chef

Noodles—Home Style

Sift through a fine sieve half a pound of flour, moisten with four egg yolks and one whole egg, adding a little salt and water. Work well together and knead it till the paste is thoroughly well mixed. Roll it down to one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness, let it dry in the open air, then fold it up, one inch and a half wide, and cut this into fine strips, dredging them over with flour to prevent them sticking together. Blanch them in boiling water previously salted, and let simmer for about six minutes. Remove, strain and cool off with cold water and use as wanted.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

Look years' younger! Use the old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

LET "DANDERINE" BEAUTIFY HAIR

Girls! Have a mass of long, thick, gleamy hair

Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty. You can have rich, long, thick, strong, lustrous hair. Don't let it stay lifeless, thin, scraggly or fading. Bring back its color, vim and vitality.

Get a 25-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter to freshen your scalp; check dandruff and falling hair. Your hair needs this stimulating tonic, then its life, color, brightness and abundance will return—Hurry!—Advertisement.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

The Wicked Marquis

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreeable English Aristocrat of the Old School

CHAPTER XXV.

THE Marquis, as he sat at his study table after lunch, was not inclined to regard his first day at Mandeleys as a success. The only post of the day had been delivered, and the letter for which he was waiting with an anxiety greater than he even realized himself, was still absent. There was a letter, however, from Mr. Wadham, which afforded him some food for thought. It was a personal letter, written by the head of the firm, and he perused it for the second time with a frown upon his forehead.

"My dear Lord Mandeleys:

"I have ventured, in your interests, to do what my son tells me you yourself felt some hesitation in doing—namely, I have made inquiry through a firm of stock-brokers who make a specialty of American oil shares, as to the Pluto Oil Company, Limited, of whose shares you have made so large a purchase. I find that no development of this property has taken place, very little, if any, machinery has been erected, no oil has ever been discovered in the locality or upon the estate. May I beg of you that, to avoid disastrous consequences, you at once see your friend from whom you purchased these shares, and endeavor to make some arrangement with him to take them off your hands, as they were doubtless tendered to you by false representations.

"I am quite sure that I need not point out to your lordship that I write you this letter entirely without prejudice and in the interests of the Mandeleys name and estates.

"There could be no possibility of the drafts executed by your lordship being met, unless the shares themselves provided the funds, which, under the existing conditions, appears impossible.

"Respectfully yours,

"STEPHEN WADHAM."

The Marquis looked out upon the lawn. There was in his memory, too, a recent and serious conversation with Mr. Merridrew, concerning the accumulating charges for dilapidations upon the property. He watched David playing croquet with Sylvia Laycey with a deepening frown upon his face, glanced from them to where Letitia sat, apparently absorbed in a book which she was reading, and then with a shrug through a side window towards that hated little demesne across the moat, where Richard Vont, in his shabby tweed velveteen suit, with his white hair and motionless figure, seemed to dominate the otherwise peaceful prospect. Somehow or other, both outlooks irritated him almost as much as his own mental condition.

The hard pressure of circumstances was asserting itself in his mind. He found himself struggling against an insidious longing to see Letitia in Sylvia's place. In his way he was superstitious. He even began to wonder whether that silent, ceaseless hate, that daily litany of curses, could really in any way be responsible for the increasing embarrassments by which he was surrounded, that great, dumb anxiety which kept him with wide-open eyes at night and sent him about in the daytime with a constant, wearing pain at his heart.

Admired by Thain

He turned at last wearily away from the window, rose to his feet, opened the French doors which led out into the gardens and strolled across the lawn to where Letitia was seated. She laid down her book and welcomed him with a smile which had in it just a shade of fatigue.

"Sylvia has already confided to me her ardent admiration."

Salute the Ham and—

Think of All the Misguided Dyspeptics Who Refuse the Good Things to Eat for Fear of Indigestion. No Trouble Like That If You Follow Meals With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets fried eggs and there you have a picture. Salute the unfortunate breakfast table.

Not that I can't eat ham and,—they don't agree. This is the sort of prejudice a host of people have against many of the most tempting dishes, people who have just as much right to a glass of milk or oatmeal as they do with fried onions. Try eating what you like at your regular meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to relieve possible sauciness, rumblings, drowsiness, sour risings, heartburn, water brash, and the "stuffy" feeling after eating. These Tablets contain harmless ingredients that act with an alkaline effect just as the stomach does when it is perfectly normal.

Many physicians prescribe them for indigestion, dyspepsia and other digestive disorders, as they are sold in all drug stores everywhere in the United States and Canada. The druggist recommends them as among his steady standbys for they really give relief and are highly appreciated.

Make Thanksgiving Happier by Helping Others to Happiness

Tomorrow we meet under the kind providence of God to observe that beautiful old New England holiday of Thanksgiving. And what cause we have for Thanksgiving!

Materially we may thank God for our prosperous homes, our heart-warming loved ones, our bountiful larders.

Spiritually, we may thank the good God for having given us the education, the intelligence, the moral guidance, that makes us appreciate the rare privilege we have of thanking the Omnipotent Being that has made it all possible.

And while we are keenly conscious of the pregnant significance of Thanksgiving Day, let us not forget those less fortunate. Let us remember that in every heart comes the yearning today for scenes and visions of childhood. The happy family seated about the Thanksgiving board, whether 'neath city walls or in the pine-scented reaches of the country—father laboriously carving the national bird; mother smilingly busy with the side dishes of fixin's; the children eagerly anxious for the wonderful experience their anticipation has lived in for weeks.

If we make some poor soul's Thanksgiving Day happier for but one moment, how much more real our own Thanksgiving Day will be. That every reader of the American may experience such a Thanksgiving, and carry from the celebration of the day a more brotherly, a more catholic and keener interest in the lives of his fellowman, is the ardent wish of this newspaper today.

Now Take Boys From Siberia and End Private War

Read in connection with Lloyd George's announcement of no more British or French funds for private wars in Russia, the memorandum of the Czecho-Slovak troops who have been guarding railroads in Siberia but who demand to go home is doubly instructive. What it says would be endorsed with enthusiasm by every American soldier in Siberia:

The unbearable conditions cause us to ask the allies to consider a means of safe conduct to the mother land. Our presence along the Siberian railroad for the purpose of guarding it becomes impossible by virtue of its uselessness and also in consequence of the most primitive demands of justice and humanity.

By guarding and maintaining order, our army has been forced against its convictions to support a state of absolute despotism and unlawfulness which has had its beginning here under defence of the Czech arms.

The military authorities of the government of Omsk are permitting criminal actions that will stagger the entire world. The burning of villages, the murder of masses of peaceful inhabitants and the shooting of hundreds of persons of democratic convictions and also those only suspected of political disloyalty occur daily.

The responsibility for this before the peoples of the world will fall on us, inasmuch as we, possessing sufficient strength, do not prevent this lawlessness. Thus our passiveness appears as a direct consequence of the principle of neutrality and non-interference in Russian internal affairs, and we are becoming apparent participants in these crimes as a result of our observing absolute neutrality.

Since this memorandum was written, the murderous "Government of Omsk," set up by Russian reactionaries, financed by Great Britain, France and Japan, and nominally led by Kolchak, has been forced back by the Bolsheviki, who have made equally short work of Judenitch's army on the southern front of European Russia. Denikin, alone, at the south has held his own in the Ukraine, where the Bolsheviki are naturally opposed to a region of small peasant farms tilled by their owners.

Without the financial support of London and Paris, not one of the paper governments in Russia, apparently, can hold together its mercenary troops or maintain anything more than a nominal power.

The endeavor to impose on the Russian people rules supported by alien arms and money has failed.

To continue a blockade to promote starvation would be to continue the proved folly of outside military intervention. It would prolong the welding of native Russian resistance under the red banner, which for two years has prevailed in Russia against internal and external foes.

There is one way they have not tried. It is to let the fog clear itself.

For not even does Lloyd George's naive expression of hope that "a nearer power"—Japan—may see fit to undertake the task promise a safe solution.

The bitterest enemy of the Nipponese autocracy could wish it no worse luck than to engage in a campaign of conquest in Russia.

The experience of Napoleon is the lesson of history. Russia can be ruled by Russians alone and they must find the form of government which best suits and serves their needs.

But now that the Kolchak tyranny has been sent scurrying out of its capital to scatter among the wastes of far Siberia, now that the Czecho-Slovaks threaten mutiny if not forthwith allowed to withdraw from any part in reactionary brutalities, what excuse can the President of the United States offer for continuing the unauthorized presence of American soldiers in frozen Siberia?

It has been demonstrated that the Russians do not want them there.

It is unmistakable that the Japanese want them there so little that they have not scrupled to subject numbers of them to insult and indignity.

Is it not time for Washington to awaken from its curious dream, stop this wanton participation in a private war and bring our soldiers home?

Next week, the Congress which is at last coming out of its coma into a stir against executive usurpation, should resume its right of control over the armed forces of the United States by declining to vote another penny for unsanctioned military adventures in foreign lands.

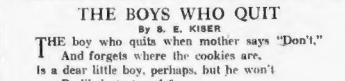
More Truth Than Poetry



THE BOYS WHO QUIT

By S. E. KISER

THE boy who quits when mother says "Don't,"
And forgets where the cookies are,
Is a dear little boy, perhaps, but he won't
Be likely to travel far;
Afraid to desert his chair,
Will never command where others obey
Or loom in the limelight's glare.

THE boy who quits when his nose is bruised,
Afraid to renew the fight,
Will learn to think he is much abused,
For his future will not be bright;
And the boy who asks for a job and turns,
At the first refusal, and leaves,
Will never be envied for what he earns
Or the victories he achieves.

THE boy who quits when the girl says "No,"
Believing that ends his case,
Will never be leading where armies go
For the boys who lose are the boys who sigh
And cease at the first rebuff;
If twenty is not enough.

THE men who fail were the boys who quit,
The meek little boys who stayed Obedient where they were told to sit,
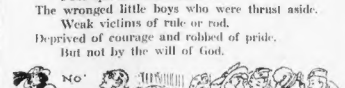
Poor-spirited and afraid—
The wronged little boys who were thrust aside,
Weak victims of rule or rod,
Deprived of courage and robbed of pride,
But not by the will of God.



MIGHT BE CONSTRUED AS ENCOURAGING

"Yes; go on."

"She asked me to wait a day or two for my answer, but she offered to pay the driver."

Thanksgiving Day

IT is fitting that one day of the year's three hundred and sixty-five be dedicated to reflection and thanksgiving, for most of us, in the hurry of a work-day life, seldom pause long enough to ponder on the good things we have been enjoying through the munificence of a wise Providence.

I am an American, and my country is at peace and blessed with prosperity, while death, poverty and ruin stalk rampant over Europe.

I have a home and the means of at least an honest livelihood; my friends are true friends, and hatred lurks in my heart for no man. I have faith in the continued progress of manhood through a process of predestined evolution. As a human unit, striving to obey the laws of the universe, I hope to contribute, if but infinitesimally, to the advancement of society. I live in an age of enlightenment and spiritual expansion, and my views are tolerated if not accepted by others. For these things, then—and many others—am I thankful.

Poor indeed is the American who cannot appropriately give thanks on the Twenty-Seventh day of November. Health, intelligence and the privilege of enjoying life are indeed the greatest of divine gifts.

Society Girl a Daily Worker

MISS ADELAIDE SEDGWICK, younger daughter of the fashionable Mrs. Harry Sedgwick of Lenox and New York, is the first member of America's ultra-aristocratic class to become a genuine working girl. Driven by the shrinking fortunes of her family and unwilling to give up her fashionable amusements, she has gone to work to provide herself with the gowns and other equipment necessary to compete in the world of fashion.

The war has changed many things. In the old days Miss Sedgwick's friends, on hearing that she was devoting her days to sordid toil, would have dropped her promptly. It is likely. As it is, although somewhat surprised to learn that she had become a gown and hat designer, Miss Sedgwick's friends make a point of dropping in on her in the store and adding to the total of her sales account.

Millions of people laugh daily at "Bringing Up Father," the cartoon serial drawn by George McManus. There is one woman in the United States who sees in the series nothing whatever of the comic. She is Mrs. Ruby Rossbach of Los Angeles—and she has a "Mr. Jiggs" in her own family. He is her husband, Victor A. Rossbach.

Mrs. Rossbach has given up the struggle to "Bring Up Father" in the way he should go, and is seeking relief in the divorce courts.

All in all, Mr. Rossbach is a perfect "Mr. Jiggs." Be sure to read the amusing story of his social battles in the coming Boston Sunday Advertiser. The story is illustrated with photographs and with cartoons by McManus.

Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes, begging a divorce from her multi-millionaire husband, alleges that he is morose, ill-natured and filthy and degraded in his personal habits. Her husband names four men with whom he asserts his wife has had improper relations. One of them is his own son by a former wife.

This allegation his young wife denies, and explains these charges by explaining that her husband has for a long time "schemed, plotted and planned to defraud her of her legal rights and destroy her good name."

The courts must decide the truth or falsity of these charges. But, in the mean time, there are many interesting sidelights on the domestic life of the Stokes family.

The Boston Sunday Advertiser is presenting, in serial form, a tremendously interesting article dealing with this drama in millionaire circles. Do not miss it. Order your Boston Sunday Advertiser in good season.

MAN'S MARCH UPWARD AN ABSORBING STORY

By Garrett P. Serviss.

THEY have recently put on exhibition in the American Museum of Natural History a memorial to a man whose life offers a fine lesson for all young men. This memorial commemorates Lewis H. Morgan, who accumulated some property, but whose principal achievement was in the study of his fellowmen and of their progress from savagery to civilization.

Out of his study of the American Indian Mr Morgan developed, to the astonishment and delight of his readers, the whole story of the upward march of the entire race of man in all quarters of the globe. For centuries philosophers and humanitarians had been writing and discoursing in a random way about savages, barbarians and civilized men without discovering the law of progress that led from one stage to another. Mr. Morgan found such a law, and his definitions are now accepted by the world of scholars everywhere, although put forth only some forty years ago.

The first stage in "the lower period of savagery," in which man is little better than a brute, living on whatever raw edibles nature furnishes, without invention, industry, art, ambition, or reflection, and in social organization below the ants and bees. At this point articulate speech was probably slowly developed, and the period may be regarded as entirely prehistoric.

"Middle Savagery"

The next period is that of "middle savagery," marked by the beginnings of the use of fire and the appearance of the germs of inventive art, stimulated by the carnivorous instinct, which is regarded as having led first to fishing as a means of supplying the larder. In this stage man is supposed to have begun to spread from his centres of origin, following rivers and seacoasts.

Third comes the "upper period of savagery," marked especially by the invention of the bow and arrow. Men then became hunters as well as fishers, and not only did their power increase over their contemporaries in the animal kingdom, but they were enabled to spread more freely over the land. They were now ready to advance to a higher stage, that of barbarism.

That which marked their passage from savagery to barbarism, according to Morgan, was the invention of the art of making pottery.

The development of pottery helped man upward by awakening his artistic sense. It is observed yet today among barbarous tribes that skill in shaping and decorating pottery is the surest indication of civilizable qualities.

Barbarism, like savagery, is divided into three periods. First in the lower period just described; then comes the middle period, marked by the domestication of various animals, such as horses, sheep, goats, and also by the beginnings of agriculture, and by the formation of definite social organization, the construction of permanent houses of rude materials, the improvement of weapons, the erection of rough fortifications, etc. Mr. Morgan classed the American Indian tribes generally as within the middle period of barbarism, the Iroquois, or "Five Nations," of New York, being well advanced in the period.

Beginning to Progress

The upper period of barbarism is reached through the invention of the process of smelting iron ore, something that was never done by the aboriginal American tribes, so that, according to Mr. Morgan's classification, even the Aztecs and the Mayas who built such astonishing cities and monumental structures in Mexico and Central America and the Peruvians under the Incas, with all their wealth, had not risen out of the middle period of barbarism.

The highest stage of all, civilization, is marked by the invention of phonetic alphabets and the employment of written records.

It is very useful and improving to take this great generalization of Mr. Morgan's and analyze it and think it over for yourself. It will give you a new interest in the race you belong to.

In a Worker's Pocket Up Goes Silver

An Italian Republic?

A Simple Russian

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1919.

A scaffolding fell yesterday. Three men were killed. When the body of Isidore Grossman, brick-layer, was lifted from the ground, $500 in Liberty Bonds and $277 in paper money fell from his pocket. That is better than finding a pawn ticket, or a dispossess notice, as you might have done a few years ago.

The value of silver goes climbing up. No wonder W. J. Bryan is excited. It took a big war, however, to do it.

Today the metal in a silver dollar is worth five cents more than the dollar—but if you melt down the dollars to get the silver you will be put in jail.

The trouble they say is that Chinese are hoarding silver. Perhaps they are getting ready to fight Japan, want silver to fight with and put it away as Prussia put away at Pandau the gold reserve that was to beat all Europe.

For instance, the United States Government has treated Italy shamefully in the war settlement.

The City of Fiume which is Italian, the northeast coast of the Adriatic that was the property of the people of Italy for centuries, should have gone to Italy when the war ended.

In the days of Cavour, Mazzini, and the great Garabaldi, the Italian nation was swindled by Napoleon III., later well beaten by Prussia. Napoleon did not keep his word, did not even allow the Italians to take back Venice from Austria. They had to wait for that until Bismarck came along.

The United States shows lack of justice, lack of appreciation for the splendid work that the Italians have done for liberty and for industry in this country, when the lands that belong to Italy are handed over to people that won't know what to do with them.

But, good comes out of evil. A republic in Italy may be the result of this republic's unfair treatment of the Italian people.

Italy would be the gainer, if out of the unjust treatment to which she has been subjected by this country, a great Italian Republic should arise. That republic will know how to get ultimately what belongs to Italy. Meanwhile, may the United States realize that the Italian people of the Twentieth Century should not be tied down by the tricky deals between the Hapsburgs and the imitation Napoleon.

Every corporation will tell you that government ownership would be a terrible thing. So it would, for corporations. For instance, with the war over the postage rate of three cents was changed to two cents. Now Mr. Burleson proposes to cut the price one cent for local postage. That is done by a postoffice run by the people and making a profit.

You haven't noticed any private corporations acting in this way, have you?

If you believe news from Russia, not always reliable, then shoot Mr. Bakromoff, president of a certain "soviet." His crime was obtaining money under false pretenses. He raised roubles and said he had used them to bribe Clemenceau of France and Wilson of America. The story was that the American President got one hundred and fifty thousand roubles, which in American money would be about enough to buy a good automobile. Mr. Bakromoff seems to have shared the sweet simplicity of the little child that helped the soldiers bring kindling wood to build a bonfire around John Huss. And the fact that he could raise money by telling his associates that he was going to bribe the heads of great nations is an interesting indication also of the general simplicity of mind in Russia.
